Turks take city and Greek base

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Turkish Cypriot radio said Turkish forces captured the eastern Cyprus port city of Famagusta today and the Greek Cypriot naval base in the Boghaz area 10 miles to the north.

It also said a Turkish assault for Lefka began on the western part of Cyprus, and Turkish forces launched attacks on the eastern and western approaches of Nicosia, the capital.

The moves against Famagusta, Nicosia and Lefka seemed to be further confirmation that Turkish invasion forces were trying to bisect Cyprus along an east-west line that would slice off the northern third of the island to create a Turkish autonomous region.

Famagusta, the second largest city on Cyprus and its most important port, is 35 miles east of Nicosia. Lefka is 20 miles west of the capital.

"We are in a desperate situation, ready to clutch at any straw to save ourselves or preserve as much as we can," a senior Cyprus government official said.

Associated Press correspondent Peter Arnett reported from Famagusta that Turkish tanks rolled into the outskirts of the city at mid-afternoon, firing a few salvos at a British outpost as they passed by.

He said the British evacuated the outpost without casualties.

Arnett said the news of the Turkish approach apparently had gone ahead because many Greek soldiers were running through the streets, away from the advance.

The Turkish Cypriot broadcast said Turkish warships and jets joined the battle for Famagusta earlier in the day.

In Athens, Foreign Miniters George Mavros said U.S. military bases in Greece are protected by bilateral agreements and expressed doubt that such agreements can be broken.

The renewed fighting on Cyprus, which started at dawn, shattered a cease-fire agreed to by both sides Wednesday night. The lull lasted only through the hours of darkness.

The camp of the 950-strong Greek army contingent, permanently based on Cyprus, was one of the main targets of the assault, and fighting raged at midday.

The camp, known as the Eldyk, is on the main western highway to Morphou. It lies two miles outside the capital, about a mile from the perimeter of Cyprus airport, still in Greek hands.

Another area heavily hit was a five-mile string of factories on the east side of Nicosia, stretching between the main roads to Famagusta in the east and Larnaca to the south.

The invading Turks reached Famagusta, 35 miles east of Nicosia, earlier in the day. But the Greek Cypriots claimed they halted the other arm of the Turkish drive to cut off the northern third of Cyprus — a force moving toward Lefka on the northwest coast 20 miles from the capital.

Famagusta was under under heavy Turkish and artillery attack. But U.N. soldiers discounted a claim by the Turkish Cypriot radio that armored units had broken through to the Turkish Cypriots in the old walled medieval sector of Famagusta, the second largest city on Cyprus and the island's most important port.

Cyprus President Glafcos Clerides called a conference of Greek Cypriot leaders to probe their reactions on concessions the Turks are expected to demand because of their overwhelming military presence on Cyprus.

A senior Cyprus government official who declined to be identified said: "Since the big powers and the U.N. Security Council appear unwilling to take any practical step to defend the very existence, let alone the territorial integrity of an independent Cyprus, we are in a desperate situation, ready to clutch at any straw to save ourselves or preserve as much as we can."

Turkish Premier Bulent Ecevit said after a meeting with U.S. Ambassador William Macomber in Ankara the United States felt "the most satisfactory and enduring solution to the Cyprus problem would be for the establishment of two separate autonomous regions" for the Greek and Turkish communities on Cyprus.

Church sworn in as manager

Charles Church, 29, was sworn in as Sikeston's third city manager at 9 a.m. today during a special City Council meeting.

Church immediately plunged into a busy schedule of meeting people and familiarizing himself with Sikeston.

"We're glad to be here," Church told the council. "We're very impressed with Sikeston and we're sure we'll enjoy living here."

Church said he is looking forward to the challenge of the position and getting to know the people with whom he will be working.

Bill Whitlock, who has been acting city manager since Oct. 1, 1973, when Jim Huff resigned, said the city is fortunate to have Church as the new city manager.

In addition to Huff, who served one year, Church was preceded by Ramert Miller, who became the first city manager in 1961 and served 11 years.

Mayor Frank Ferrell thanked Whitlock for the work he had put in as acting city manager during the past year. Whitlock will return to the post of assistant city manager now that Church has arrived.

Church, his wife Carol Linn and daughter Jori Linn have moved into a new house at 932 N. W. St. in Hunter Acres West subdivision.

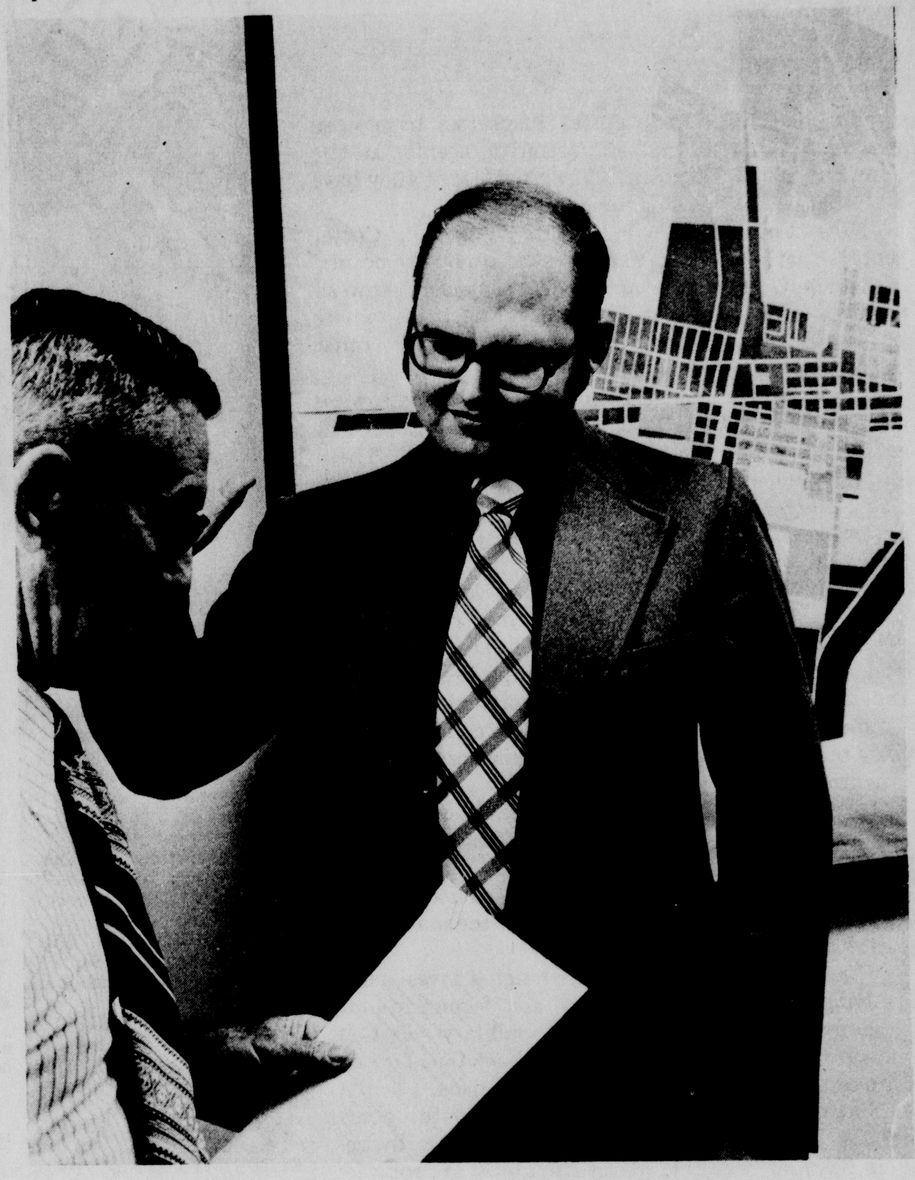

Church, a native of Wheat Ridge Colo., received a bachelor of arts degree in political science from Doane College in Crete, Neb., and a master's degree in public administration in 1968 from University of Colorado in Boulder. He has been city manager at DeSoto since 1971.

The council passed a resolution urging the Missouri Highway Commission to proceed with planning and construction of an interchange at Route HH and Interstate Highway 55.

The interchange is being sought to help provide a north loop around the city and relieve traffic congestion on Malone Avenue as well as open the northeast part of town for new development.

The council decided to review solid waste contracts and specifications for waste removal at a later meeting.

Whitlock said the city has an old contract in its files the council might want to see. He said the contract might easily be revised to fit the city's plans.

Church takes the oath

Charles Church stands before a map of Sikeston while City Clerk John Vaughn, left, reads him the oath of office. Church was sworn in this morning as Sikeston's third city manager. Church began his tenure in Sikeston with a round of meetings to familiarize himself with the city and the people with whom he will be working. (Daily Standard photo)

Nixon subpoenaed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon was subpoenaed today to appear as a witness for John D. Ehrlichman in the Watergate cover-up trial.

It was the first legal action involving Nixon since he became a private citizen.

The subpoena was presented to U.S. District Court and was signed by Andrew C. Hall, Ehrlichman's lawyer.

It has not yet been served on the former president, who could send his lawyers to court to ask that the subpoena be dismissed.

The subpoena said:

"You are commanded to appear in U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia ... on the 9th day of September, 1974, at 9:30 a.m. to testify on behalf of John D. Ehrlichman ... and to remain until called."

It was addressed to Nixon at the "Presidential compound, San Clemente, Calif.," where the former president has been since resigning his office last Friday.

A U.S. marshal will deliver the subpoena to the compound after it is sent to California from Washington, a lawyer in the case said.

The federal grand jury that indicted Ehrlichman, Nixon's former domestic counselor, and six other former White House and political aides, also named Nixon himself as an unindicted co-conspirator in the cover-up.

There had been repeated subpoenas for Nixon's records while he served in the White House. Circumstances are different now because he no longer has the protection of the office as grounds for resisting such a call.

The cover-up grand jury has been meeting in recent weeks, and a big question is whether it will indict Nixon now that he is no longer president.

Spokesmen for the Watergate special prosecution force say no decision has been made on whether to seek an indictment, and that no action is expected in the near future.

Mental health grant awarded

FARMINGTON — A federal hospital Improvement Program grant of nearly $300,000 has been awarded by the National Institute of Mental Health to Farmington State Hospital. It is set up to provide community based mental health services for people in outlying sections of the hospital's service area.

The grant will enable the hospital to train and place qualified field workers in regions where the distances to and from Farmington create problems for people needing immediate services.

Scott County is one of the areas selected for this project, according to Donald L. Barton, the hospital Social Service director and author of the grant. Workers in the outreach program will be chosen from their own counties where they will return after receiving a month's training at Farmington State Hospital.

Eligible to apply are persons with college degrees, professional health workers, people with teaching or social work backgrounds and those with unusual skills in working with people and/or communities. Applications may be sent to Donald Barton at Farmington State Hospital, Farmington, Mo. 63640.

The grant is funded to become operative Sept. 1, with the staff to include a project supervisor, six outreach workers and one clerical helper. Counties to be served include Butler, Cape Girardeau, Dent, Howell, Scott and Wayne. Purpose of the program is: (1) to bring hospital services closer to the community where the patient lives, (2) to provide more continuity for people receiving outpatient and family care services, and (3) to try to mobilize community interest around mental health concerns and needs.

Farmington is located at almost the northern extremity of the hospital's 28- county service area covering over 18,000 square miles of southeast and south central Missouri. Within this area there are approximately 492,000 people. For many of them the cost, transportation and time involved in getting to Farmington is prohibitive.

Bootheel farmers seek drought disaster aid

Over 1,000 farmers in three Bootheel counties have applied for federally -sponsored disaster payments because of recent drought conditions. Many more applications are expected as farmers harvest their crops.

In Stoddard County, 516 requests have been received and "we're getting more every day," David Holland, assistant director of Stoddard County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS), said.

The number has reached 575 in Scott County, a spokesman at the county ASCS office said. No applications have been made in New Madrid County because "farmers didn't plant in the spring due to wet weather, or lost their crops because of it," Ginny Wather of the New Madrid ASCS said.

George Roberts, executive director of the Mississippi County ASCS today said that there had been a few applications for low wheat yields, but "they weren't serious enough to qualify for the disaster payments."

Results of the drought are evident mainly on the corn crops, he said, but the extent of the damage or how many will apply for disaster payments won't be known until they start picking.

The disaster payments program is new this year, having been includend in the four- year farm legislation program Congress passed last year.

Disaster payments can be made only for allotment acreages of wheat, corn, grain sorghum, barley or upland cotton when natural disaster has prevented planting or has resulted in abnormally low yields.

Application should be made at the county ASCS office whenever a producer believes his allotment crops have been adversely affected by natural disaster.

Application must be made no later than 15 days after completion of harvest in order to qualify for a disaster payment.

Farmers with feed grain and wheat allotments, who have not already certified their acreage under the allotment programs, will be permitted to certify at the time they apply for disaster payments.

Cotton growers must certify acreage by Sept. 1, in order to qualify for any cottong program benefits, including disaster payments.

Since an inspection must be made to help determine the extent of damage, producers are being cautioned not to plow up or otherwise dispose of the crop residue until receiving permission from the county ASCS office.

Vowels exphasized that without a field inspection, the disaster payment amount cannot be determined and therefore it is essential to the producer that he wait for permission before destroying the crop residue.

Disaster payments are processed by the county ASCS office as soon as qualification for payment and extent of loss are determined.

Vowels pointed out that the program was not meant to provide full conpensation for losses suffered because of natural disaster, but said the payments will help tide producers through a difficult period.

Man hospitalized

Ron Grojean, 814 William St., was injured about 11:45 a.m. today when his automobile struck a pickup truck at Turner Street and Highway 62 East in front of the Learue and McKinney M&H Store.

He was taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital for treatment of possible head injuries.

Grojean was eastbound when his car struck the side of a pickup driven by Francis Adams, Route Two. Adams was making a left turn onto the highway and pulled across the eastbound lane into Grojean's path.

Adams told Minor police his view of the road was blocked by cars parked in the grocery store parking lot and he did not see Grojean's car. Miner police officer said the last two accidents at that location were also caused by parked cars blocking the view.

The front end of Grojean's car was demolished. The pickup truck was damaged.

Spraying scheduled

NEW MADRID — Aerial spraying for mosquito control in the city is scheduled between 6 and 8 a.m. Saturday, if weather conditions are favorable, according to Jim Woods of Farmers Ag Service.

Woods said that if the spraying is not completed Saturday, it will be continued during the same hours on Sunday.

This will be the second aerial spraying of the summer to combat the mosquito problem, and Woods said it might be necessary to spray again in about a month.

East Prairie man is patrol recruit

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Two women and six blacks were among the 30 recruits named today by the state Highway Patrol for its academy class beginning Sept. 1.

Capt. John Little, head of the training division, said the women are the first in the patrol's history to be accepted for training as troopers, while the black cadets form the largest minority percentage in a patrol recruit class.

Patricia R. Wright, 22, Columbia, one of the two women, is believed to be the first woman to apply for a post as a trooper. She is a graduate of Northeast Missouri State University in Kirksville and is a security guard at the University of Missouri in Columbia.

The other woman is Bridget Ann Cronin, St. Louis.

"We didn't really consider women as troopers until about January of this year. But then the superintendent decided we would treat them the same as others," Little said.

The large number of black recruits was the result of an intense recruiting program by the patrol.

The patrol was criticized last spring because of the lack of minority representation in its ranks.

Only five of the present 744 troopers are black.

"The program was very successful," Little said, "and we will continue this program until we get a proportionate share of blacks in the highway patrol as compared to the percentage of blacks in the state of Missouri."

The 28 men chosen for the recruit class are:

Gerald Bonner of Kansas City, William D. Bourg of St. Louis, William V. Cottom of Theodosia, Ronald P. Dempsay of Canton, Oliver Dixon of East Prairie.

Donald R. Frey of Pevely, Gary R. Heskett of St. Louis, Mervyn E. J. Horne of Kansas City, Gregory Alan Hug of Affton, Charles E. Johnson of St. Louis, Terrence R. LeBaron of Willow Springs.

Larry C. White of St. Charles, Reginald L. Woods of Kansas City, Randall Beydler of Eldorado Springs, Edward H. Blienfnick of Benton City, Randy L. Brown of Warrensburg, Clifford R. DON'T TAMPER WITH U. S. MAIL

For decades, U. S. Postal Inspectors have been respected as the top enforcement agents in the country. Like the Canadian Mounted Police they have a reputation for "getting their man."

Now Chief Postal Inspector William J. Cotter reports that his force is being backed up by the courts. He said that in recent examples the sentences show an increasing no nonsense approach by judges where postal crimes against carriers, clerks and other employees are involved.

"I believe the recent attitude of the courts toward postal offenders is critical in our attempts to protect employees from assaults and holdups," he said. "These stiffer sentences should act as a much needed deterrent on potential criminals who might otherwise prey with impunity on postal employees in the performance of their vital jobs of moving the mails."

Chief Cotter recounted that last January in the Southern District of New York three persons were given multiple sentences for an attempted hijack of a mail truck during which a postal employee was killed. The trio were sentenced to life imprisonment on the murder count; 25 years on the assault count; and five years on a conspiracy count. The sentences are to run concurrently.

He also reported that in July of last year sentences totaling 145 years were dealt out to four gunmen who held up a postal station in Baltimore.

Heavy sentences are also being meted out for sending pornographic material through the mails, Chief Cotter said.

"And," he added, "in a far- ranging investigation involving a group of active duty and former military personnel using the mails and military craft to transport heroin, several individuals have thus far been given sentences from 10 to 36 years in prison."

Too much has been reported lately of the courts handing down small sentences for criminal activities. Much has also been said about the abuse of probation and parole. It's a healthy sign to see that the courts are taking a stiffer attitude in one area. We hope it spreads so that hardened criminals cannot expect to get away with light sentences for serious crimes regardless of their nature.

"It is comforting to know," columnist George F. Will is quoted in the Public Utilities Fortnightly magazine as saying, "that there are no experts on the future and that we do not know where we are going. It also is imperative that the government, which is full of experts, acknowledge this. In government, as in everything else, wisdom begins with knowing what it is that we do not know. If the government today commits us to long- term policies based on today's improvident long- range predictions about future economic 'realities,' we may be plunged back into the economic stagnation from which mankind has only recently emerged."

LIBERATED SISTERS AS GUILTY AS MEN

When Sally Forth, today's liberated Ms., ventures out to make her way in the jungle of the male -dominated business or career world, it's forgottor that someone has to come into the home to clean the house watch the kids, do the laundry or maybe cook.

The fact is that today's liberated woman often depends upon another group of women - the domestic or private household employes -to free her of the housewife's chores.

The fact also is, points out Dr. Doris McLaughlin, assistant research scientist with the University of Michigan and Wayne State University, these private household employes are among the lowest paid and least protected workers in the labor force.

"More often than not," she says. "Professional women deny their household employes benefits they themselves expect -indeed, take for granted -in their own work."

Although household workers are now covered by the new statutory minimum wage of $2 an hour, less than one -third of them work full time; many work for a different employer every day; they have no paid sick time or holidays; are unemployed when their employer leaves town for any reason, and although legally entitled to them, often are eliminated from social security benefits.

The end result, says Dr. McLaughlin, is that the movement of one group of women up the economic ladder entails the economic exploitation of another group of women.

In fairness to the career women, she suggests that their lack of concern for their sisters is because their freedom is thinking of themselves as employers - a role that until quite recently was usually reserved for males.'

Until they do, says Dr. McLaughlin, "they may not even realize that in treating their household help in such a cavalier manner they are depriving other women of the same benefits that they are fighting so hard to obtain for themselves."

On his first trip to Washington, Russian Premier Kosygin was taken on a tour through the new computer room at the Pentagon. In demonstrating the machine's remarkable capabilities as a prediction unit, Kosygin was asked if he would like to ask the machine any questions.

"Why, yes," Kosygin replied.

He turned to the machine and asked: "What will the United States be like 25 years from today?"

Within minutes, out came a printed analysis and commentary of things to come, that was simply remarkable.

Then he asked another question, "What will the U.S.S.R. be like 25 years from today?"

Out came another printed analysis. Kosygin stared at it with extreme interest.

"What does it say?" he was asked.

"I'm not sure," Kosygin answered. "I can't read it because it's in Chinese."

YOU MAY NEVER NEED THIS ADVICE, BUT HERE IT IS, JUST IN CASE YOU DO

The odds are that each of us will at some time be involved in a traffic accident. If you are, do you know what you must do?

What, exactly, does being "involved in an accident" mean? "If you are behind the wheel of a vehicle that comes into physical contact with another vehicle, pedestrian or object, you are involved in an accident. If you are driving and cause or contribute to a crash by another driver, you are involved in an accident even though there is no physical contact involving your car.

"For instance, if you are double parked, a car drives on the left side of the street to avoid it, and collides with an oncoming car, you are involved in an accident. Similarly, if you pass a car and force it off the road into a pole, you are involved in an accident. Being 'involved in an accident' has nothing to do with causing it."

Tha definition and much more appear in a document prepared by Mr. Edward F. Kearney, Executive Director of the National Committee on Uniform Traffic Laws and Ordinances, to inform drivers what they must do after involvement in an accident.

First: Stop the Car

If you find yourself involved in an accident, the first thing you must do is stop immediately. The stop should be made as close to the scene as possible, but ought not to obstruct traffic any more than necessary.

Next, you must identify yourself. The law requires involved drivers to remain at the scene of the accident until they have identified themselves and aided any injured person. If, however, you must leave the scene to call an ambulance or to notify the police, be sure to leave a note attached to the vehicle in order to avoid any possible minunderstanding about your intentions.

Every driver of a vehicle involved in an accident must give all reasonable aid and assistance to any person injured in the accident.

Call Police

If any person has been injured in an accident, an involved driver must notify the nearest police station by using the quickest means of communication. This duty should be performed immediately after identifying yourself at the scene and aiding the injured. Most people call the police to summon an ambulance. This takes care of two duties at the same time.

Every driver of a vehicle which is involved in certain accidents must file a written report of the accident with the appropriate agency in the state where the accident occurred.

Gather as much information as you can at the scene of the accident. Be sure to get the names and addresses and telephone numbers of any persons involved in the accident as well as any bystanders who may have witnessed the accident.

You must also notify the company which insures the vehicle you were driving at the time of the accident. This should be done without delay.

The document concludes by admonishing all of us to follow all the rules of the road and to be prepared in case other persons do violate them. Anyone who has ever been involved in even a minor accident must agree with Mr. Kearney that "An accident is a hassle."

Vacationing motorists will be on the highways in large numbers during the month of August. With this in mind, Colonel Sam S. Smith, the Superintendent of the Missouri State Highway Patrol, today urged all motorists to take extra care to share the road with their fellow drivers.

"Many families will be vacationing this month," Smith stated. "They will be traveling to and from various parks and recreational areas. Some of these vacationing families, however, may end their vacations abruptly in an accident because a driver refused to share the road."

The Patrol Superintendent pointed out that a driver who shares the road will not drive over the speed limit, hurry through traffic, cheat at stop signs, or try to stay ahead of the other fellow. He will, instead, obey all traffic laws, show courtesy to others and avoid taking foolish chances.

"Last August, 130 persons were killed in Missouri traffic accidents," Smith noted. "Many of these people were from the same family. It behooves every driver to make the family's safety his primary consideration as he travels. I urge everyone to show extra courtesy and patience wherever he drives during the month of August."

The Tragic Enslavement of the Baltic States

Every year, Communist delegates to the United Nations bring up the question of Puerto Rico's "colonial" status and issue loud denuciatons of U.S. "oppression" of the island commonwealth. One of the purposes for this action is no doubt to draw attention away from the Soviet Union's enslavement of the three Baltic nations: Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania.

In 1940, after an agreement with Nazi Germany, Soviet troops marched into the three independent states and annexed them to the USSR. Sham elections were held, but no one was fooled. When they issued the Atlantic Charter, President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill declared that the Baltic States should be granted their independence.

This support of the three brave nations didn't last long. The U.S. quietly withdrew its demand for independence of Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania, in order to gain Soviet cooperation in the founding of the United Nations. The United Nations decolonization committee, formed largely at commuist insistence, has not even once taken up the question of the suppression of the Baltic states.

The Soviet take -over of the Baltic states was more than simple annexation. The Kremlin has a ruthless policy of stamping out the national indentity of the Baltic peoples, persecuting their religion and suppressing their culture. In the current climate of "detente" , the United States has a moral obligation to demand that the Soviet Union give a measure of independence to these captive nations, in return for all the concessions the U.S. is granting. The Big Mushroom? Is There Rational Reason To Fear Atomic Power Plants?

There are many informed persons in our leadership milieu who believes this nation can't survive unless it builds a mighty network of nuclear power plants. There are many dedicated, knowledgeable men and women who believe this nation won't survive the creation of such an atomic power grid. One scholar in the field should know best. So I asked her who is right. Here is her answer written exclusively for this column:

By Dixy Lee Ray
Chairman, U.S. Atomic Energy Commission[

WASHINGTON --A news story crossed my desk recently in which critics of nuclear energy were quoted as saying that a nuclear power plant accident in Connecticut would "take the whole state." They also claimed that a nuclear power plant can explode with 2,000 times the power of the nuclear bomb dropped on Hiroshima in World War II.Both of these statements are false and misleading.

But the story illustrates some of the problems encountered by the nuclear industry in its efforts to develop better public understanding of nuclear energy --understanding both its benefits and the dimension of its potential risks.

What is the problem?

For most people, radiation remains a sinister and mysterious force --you can't see it, smell it or feel it. Doctors and dentists use its powers routinely to help detect problems and treat them. This use of radiation is widely accepted because it is encountered in a beneficial context.

Why then the controversy over production of electricity by using nuclear fuel? I believe there is no simple explanation, but I would like to offer a few thoughts.

We cannot help but associate nuclear energy with its first use as a terribly destructive weapon of war. It is not irrational, but certainly it is incorrect, to associate nuclear power plants with the nuclear explosive. This makes as much sense as associating electricity with electrocution in the electric chair, or worrying about asphyxiation from the poisonous gas chlorine held in large supply in every city for use in treating drinking water.

Since its inception, people working in the nuclear industry have recognized the importance of their role in helping to provide the public with information about nuclear energy --what it can do to help mankind, what its hazards are (both real and imagined) and the precautions which are taken. But we realize that we have not been very effective.

On the other hand, the job of designing and constructing nuclear power plants so that they are safe has been carried out with outstanding success. Why then has the task of informing the public been so pitifully inadequate? Part of the reason for this may be that the nuclear industry has been trapped by its own jargon --''maximum credible accident,'' ''criticality,'' ''abnormal occurrences,'' ''emergency core cooling,'' ''Scram,'' are just a few of the terms which create fearful impressions in the minds of the public. Added to the complex terminology of physics and the equations of engineers, the result is anything but common -sense English.

Further, we have not done a very good job in placing the radiation that arises from our nuclear activities in perspective with the radiation that exists naturally in the world about us. The estimated average annual exposure to radiation in the United States in 1973 included 44 radiation units from cosmic rays; 40 from rocks, soils and building materials containing radioactive materials; and 18 units from sources (mostly potassium) that occur naturally inside our bodies. Global fallout gave us 4 radiation units, occupational activities 0.8 units, other things such as TV and air travel 2.6 units, and medical activities accounted for 73 units of radiation exposure. From nuclear power plants we received 0.003 of a unit in 1970 and by the year 2000 this exposure is projected to be 0.425 of a unit --trivial compared to the radiation that we all receive anyway

Since the first central station nuclear power plant began operation in the 1950s, the scientists and engineers who design and operate these plants have known full well that accidents could occur. They are also keenly aware of what the consequences of a nuclear accident would be. Hence there are many, many back -up systems designed into the plant so that if one fails another will automatically take over. We call it "defense in depth."

Now that some years of experience with nuclear power plants have been accumulated, we wanted to see how well this conservative ''redundant system'' engineering approach is working. Hence Prof. Norman Rasmussen of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology was commissioned to conduct a study on the probability of serious accidents in nuclear power plants. Preliminary results from this on -going study indicate that the melting of the fuel core in a nuclear power plant --generally considered to be the most serious accident which could occur --would not be an extraordinarily large accident, as some persons have assumed.

A comparison of annual average risk from air travel accidents and nuclear power plant accidents shows that the risk from air travel accidents is about ten thousand times that of nuclear plant accidents. As a matter of fact, the safety consciousness which is a hallmark of nuclear plants carries over to industrial type accidents. The industrial safety record at nuclear plants is far superior to fossil -fueled plants.

Nuclear power should be viewed within the confines of the total energy problem which confronts the United States. Nuclear plants now contribute about 6 per cent of the electricity generated in the U.S., but by the turn of the century these plants will be providing more than half of our electricity.

The energy decisions which face us today are difficult because no one can accurately predict the future.

Solar energy, the breeder reactor, geothermal power, and , ultimately, fusion power will be developed in the years and decades ahead, but no one can say how soon, or at what cost. Today we must rely on the fossil fuels which have traditionally powered our society and on the growing number of nuclear plants to provide for our increasing needs.

The AEC is trying to improve the flow of information about the energy options that we have, and the trade -offs which must be made when we decide whether to burn more of our irreplaceable fossil fuels --coal, oil and natural gas --or to build more nuclear plants. We also are providing information on the development of other sources of energy -- solar power, geothermal, and fusion.

The purpose of all of our information activities is to provide the public with the data needed to make informed judgments. Full and understandable information is the key ingredient to better public understanding of nuclear energy, as it is to all of our other energy technologies.

WASHINGTON --The new summer fashions for American tourists visiting Washington have recently been released, and from all indicaitons the clothes are going to be more formal than in previous years.

The source of this information was Sophie Glutz, the famous Washington tourist expert, who said, "It appears now that women will be wearing more stretch pants than Bermuda shorts when visiting the public monuments."

"Does this mean that women tourists visiting this town will no longer be wearing blue jeans and sweat shirts?"

"Oh, I wouldn't rule that out completely. In the daytime you may find a certain number of women in blue jeans and sweat shirts, as well as shorts, but in the evening they will probably change into slacks, stretch pants and blouses."

"Is it true that the short shorts are out?"

"They are after 4 o'clock. Of course, many tourists will still visit the White House and the Lincoln Memorial in short shorts, but we're recommending longer shorts for the Senate and House of Representatives."

"I think that's wise," I said. "What about skirts?"

"Skirts are awfully dressy for sightseeing in Washington, but some women will wear them with halters and bare midriffs and open -toed sandals."

"What about dresses and suits for women?"

"Heaven forbid. A woman tourist wouldn't be seen dead in a dress or suit. All the other tourists would laugh at her."

"What about styles? "

"Keeping your hair in curlers while sightseeing still seems to be the rage. The large colored plastic curlers which stick out all over your head are coming back in again."

"How about face cream?"

"It's optional. Many women tourists prefer it to suntan oil as suntan oil doesn't show as well."

"I suppose socks and stockings are out?"

"They have been for some time now, unless you're going to a state dinner at the White House."

"What's new in colors?"

''In shorts, we're recommending plaids for women who weigh more than 150 pounds. They look much better from the rear. Also, stripes are back in, at least as far as sweat shirts are concerned. The simple black toreador pants of a few years ago are definitely out."

"What about men's tourist fashions?"

"There hasn't been too much change in men's fashions this year. They'll still wear Army fatigues, bright -colored sports shirts, sneakers and baseball caps."

"And children?"

"We're not laying down any hard and fast rules on what children should wear in Washington. The National Gallery of Art has asked that children not wear bathing suits when visiting it, but you have to remember that the gallery is a very stuffy institution."

"I'm delighted to see how the standards in clothers have gone up in the nation's capital this year," I said.

"Yes, it's amazing how clothes -conscious Americans are when they visit Washington these days. It's as though they know that they're on display, and they want to look their best for

JACK ANDERSON SAYS: Colson's Ray Gun

WASHINGTON --Former presidential aide Charles Colson once considered firing a high -voltage Buck Rogers -style cannon at the White House to erase the taped conversations of Richard Nixon.

Such a ''Mission: Impossible" would have wiped out the evidence on the White House tapes which led to Nixon's resignation. Colson, however, contends he never seriously pondered the scheme into action.

Despite this denial, Colson did meet twice with an industrial research consultant, Gordon Novel, and discussed the possibility of using an experimental "de -gaussing cannon" to fire a gigantic magnetic pulse at the White House tape storage room. A rough design of the ray gun, named after a magnetic measurement, was even drawn up.

"Novel talked about driving by the White House and demagnetizing all the tapes." Colson told us from prison through friends. "It was something that he said would fire three blocks."

Novel, who is also an electronics expert, told us he was visiting Colson in March on an unrelated legal matter when the talk turned to the tapes.

Colson, he said, told him that tapes at the White House and the CIA "could cause the President's grief." Novel mentioned the "de -gaussing cannon" and Colson urged him to look into it. Colson insists he gave the consultant "no encouragement."

Novel, however, obviously thought he had a mandate from Colson. He journeyed to El Paso, Tex., and spoke with Jack Prentice, innovative research and design chief for Jetco, Inc. Jetco already was marketing a metal detector using "de -gaussing" principles.

Prentice tole Novel, and confirmed to us, that he had built a prototype cannon and could construct an operational one for $25,000 to $30,000. Prentice's view was that since the tapes belonged to the President, there would be no crime in erasing them if Colson, acting for the President, okayed it.

The Jetco specialist drew up a simple plan for the "de -gaussing cannon," using capacitors, a switch, a parabotic reflector and a special heat -resistant coil. The electronic artillery piece could be housed in a van, or mounted in a light plane or helicopter.

On March 21, Novel wrote Colson that he would "forward by hand courier the known facts on the El Paso erasure matter," "the code name for the "de -gausser."

Shortly thereafter, the industrial consultant flew to Washington again and talked to one of this area's best known electronic men, Allan Bell, president of Dektor Conterintelligence and Security. Bell threw cold water on the mission, saying that it was "iffy" and "impractical."

At its best, advised Bell, the bizarre device would obliterate a few layers of tape, leaving the rest intact. At worst, it would destroy huge quantities of other taped material and scramble all computer "memories" in its path.

Since one part of the scheme was to bombard the CIA, the irresistible jolt of magnetism might blot out priceless files of Russian and Chinese agents and other espionage and security matters.

Novel went back to Colson's office with his report. Novel's assessment was that hiding in the heavy woods near the CIA, or "de -gaussing" the tapes from the tank -van while they were in transport, offered a better chance of success than magnetically bombarding the CIA or the White House from a plane.

But as Novel recalls it, they mutually decided not to pursue the plan because of its danger to national security tapes and computers near the target tapes.

Colson scoffs at the idea that the magnetic beam ever came that close to development. "I laughed at it," he said. "It was a little bit of comic relief." President Nixon, however, had fears that Colson was a sucker for just such farout ideas. In the transcripts, Nixon said Colson "loves the action ...Colson would do anything."

Footnote: Colson and Novel also discussed a caper to patch H.R. Haldeman's voice onto a tape along with an actor who would imitate President Nixon and make false confessions. The fake tape would be sent with a phony authenticating note from an allegedly disgruntled Secret Service man to the Senate Watergate Committee which, Colson surmised , would leak it. Then he and Novel would reveal the tape was fraudulent and the hoax would tend to discredit the whole case against Nixon. Colson said it was "true" he discussed this idea.

"Wouldn't that be a great gag?" his statemnent said.

BAKER'S BOMBSHELL: Bobby Baker, the former Senate aide who went to prison in a celebrated scandal of the early 1960s, has completed more than half of a book that will embarrass some present senators.

Now a successful businessman, Baker insists he isn't writing a cruel book about those who condemned him. Indeed, the book will contain many warm anecdotes about prominent political figures.

But the book will charge that Sen. Barry Goldwater, R -Ariz., now the Senate's "Mr. Clean," twisted arms for political funds when he was the Republican Senate campaign chairman.

Baker will also chide the present apostle of political reform, Sen. Sam ERvin, D -N.C., for voting consistently against reform in times past.

Baker will also point out that Sen. Carl Curtis, R -Neb., who saw no great wrong in President Nixon's conduct, lashed out against the Democrat's involved in the comparatively small -potatoes Baker case.

The former Senate boy wonder hopes to publish his book after the din of Watergate dies down.

Ann Landers

Former drug user speaks from her own experience

Dear Ann Landers: I am glad you printed that letter by the professor at the University of California. I believe his name is Hardin B. Jones. Many kids in our school talked about it.

I am a girl, 17, and I speak from experience. When I started to smoke pot, I was 15 and in the 10th grade. I just wanted to see what it would do to me. Well, I tried it and liked it, although I had to smoke a lot to get high.

After six months my grades began to slip. When I was in the ninth grade I made nearly straight A's, with an occasional B. After six months on pot I was a B and C student. One year later I was getting D's.

I decided to try an experiment. It took a year, but it was worth it. I proved the following:

1. You can't get physically addicted to pot, but it isn't easy to quit if you enjoy the high.

2. I am getting straight A's now and I am not smoking anymore.

3. My memory has improved a lot this past year.

4. I get along better with people and have a happier outlook on life.

5. Smoking isn't a sign of being cool. It's a sign of being stupid.

6. You waste a lot of money for something that wasn't all that great.

I'm thankful I didn't get busted. When I think of the shame I could have brought on my parents, I could die.

Please print this, Ann. Kids might listen to someone their own age. --Straight In Denver

Dear Straight: Here it is and I can add nothing except my thanks.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm writing a few months in advance because I need bolstering. My mother -in -law comes every winter and stays a month. I wait on her hand and foot. She doesn't lift a finger. It is all "expected". Never a word of thanks for anything. By the time she leaves I'm a bundle of nerves.

This woman has money but never spends one dime when she is a guest in our home. It would never occur to her to take us out to dinner or buy some steaks or pay for a tankful of gas, although I seem to be driving her around for hours at a time.

My mother -in -law is the last person I would pick for a friend. She is selfish, demanding and unappreciative. Yet I am stuck with her for four weeks every year. I have threatened to leave a few days before she arrives next January.

You had such a beautiful relationship with your mother -in -law. What was your formula? --Frustrated

Dear Fruss: I didn't need a "formula" because I didn't have your mother -in -law. My advice is to abide by the A.A. motto, "Change what you can, accept that which you cannot change, and may God give you the wisdom to know the difference."

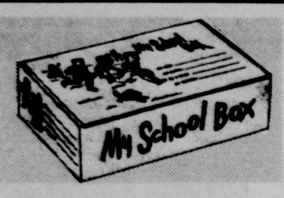

You cannot change your mother -in -law, so accept her as she is --with grace, if possible --for your husband's sake. Talk to your physician, who may have some advice to tide you over the rough spots. (And P.S. Stop waiting on her "hand and foot." It isn't necessary.)

Grueling test for SHS gridders

"We need bodies!"

Sounds like a mortician, right? Well, those are the words of second -year SHS head football coach Terry Smith as he mused about the upcoming football season.

"Specialization," the coach shook his head. "The kids themselves probably want to play, but everybody tells them it won't be good for them, they'll get musclebound..." The veteran mentor gestures helplessly.

"We'll have at most 60 to 65 kids out."

Talking about the upcoming season, the coach --a well -known pessimist --described his team as "very small, slow, and young." A grim picture for Sikeston fans, unless you take into account that Terry Smith that used to cry year after year at Perryville and them come south and beat the favored Bulldog teams every year.

The first practice of the 1974 football season began this morning at 9 a.m. for varsity players. A grueling test of endurance as set for the varsity hopefuls, but a test that every basketball, baseball and tennis player ought to be able to pass.

"We get so frustrated," said Smith, "when we teach and work with the boys as freshmen and, even as sophomores. Then, some grownup or uninvolved friend takes him aside and talks about how football has ruined so -and -so or how good what's -is -name was until he went out for football." There is probably just as great of an injury incidence in the sport of basketball.

"Quitting's like a plague. A guy quits, then he tries to talk all his buddies out of it so they won't show him up."

The coach, who was an undeniable success at Perryville, where he got a great deal more co -operation from the school's athletes, said that he wasn't completely disappointed with last year's Bulldog team. "I still say we were the best 1 -8 team in the state." Mistakes and penalties killed the Bulldogs early against the "easy" part of their schedule and they narrowly missed upsetting the likes of Poplar Bluff and Jackson.

Participating in football can only benefit an athlete in other sports," was the main theme of the coach's discertation. Of course they don't need boys to come out when the athletes don't really have the desire or courage to hit and be hit. But, too many quality athletes are walking the corridors of Sikeston High School while the team goes on without them.

"We're going to be aggressive." Smith indicated that he felt the Bulldogs could overcome a lot of their handicaps in size and speed with execution and dedication.

As was the case last year, Sikeston will use a good defense to try and stay in every game this year. The players, hopefully, will have a carryover of the pride and confidence in themselves that the coaching staff attempted to instill last year.

Another added problem for SHS is an eight -game schedule. Sikeston has called far and wide in a vain attempt to schedule a ninth game on either of their two open dates, September 13th (the preferred date) or October 4th.

What it boils down to is this question: Does anybody want to play (or play for) the Bulldogs?

Tough bird

RISCO -- If the Department of Conservation's stocking of Korean pheasants in southeast Missouri ever results in a huntable population, the hunter had better make sure the bird is dead before he picks it up.

Those pheasants are tough!

Lowell and Charles Kirksey, who have a farm near Risco, have seen what apparently is the same cock pheasant (it was in the same fencerow) peck two cottonmouth moccasins to death in recent weeks.

The first time it happened, the snake was a 3½-footer. The bird attacked the snake and pecked out its eyes, then peeled its head back "just like you'd peel a grape" they said.

The second snake was even bigger, 4½ feet, and came to grief about 100 yeads from the first one. The pheasant still is trutting around, sleeves rolled up. looking for a fight.

Dennis White, a senior at Sikeston High School was one of the many Bulldogs who turned out today for varsity try -outs. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale White of 101 Powers Drive.

Jackson names new assistant

JACKSON --The JHS Indians have announced that Ken Callis will be the new offensive backfield under head coach Paul Webber this fall. The tribe began drills today.

Ken graduated from Nashville High School in Nashville, Tennessee where he participated in all sports.

Ken received a football scholarship to the University of Tennessee at Martin where he was the starting tailback.

He will join Webber, Bob Sink, defensive coach and Terry Moore, line coach and will be teaching English at the high school.

Mizzou going to air attack

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Opponents of Missouri can look for the Big Eight Conference team to put the football in the air more often this fall.

Or at least that's what the Tigers' 53-year-old coach, Al Onofrio, indicated during an annual luncheon Wednesday for newsmen preceding the start of practice next week.

Onofrio, in projecting on an 11-game season which starts Sept. 14 against Mississippi, said he expects "the most effective passing attack we've had in a long time."

"We have passers who can throw the ball and receivers who can catch them," he noted. "We feel we can pass more because now we have the ingredients."

Elected to do the Tigers' throwing are Ray Smith, a 6-foot-2 senior who took over late last season as a regular, and Steve Pisarkiewicz, a 6-foot-3 sophomore who was redshirted in 1973.

"They're both complete quarterbacks," emphasized Onofrio, who will go with seniors Ray Bybee at fullback and Bill Ziegler at tailback.

"We'll try to uzye the option to its full effect," added the Tiger coach.

The planned Mizzou aerial renaissance follows a season during which the Tigers ranked last in Big Eight passing and next to last in rushing.

"But we're going to do everything we can to cross that goal line," Onofrio promised. "I think we're adequate to have a strong attack."

Missouri's defense, which improved in 1973, features nine returning starters and represents the least of the team's worries.

"There's not a lot of experience in the offensive line," the coach noted, "but it has potential. It's going to be our aim to do the things that offensive line will let us do."

Home dates against Baylor and Arizona State follow the Tigers' opener against Ole Miss at Jackson, Miss., with Wisconsin the team's other nonconference foe.

"We're kind of excited about the football season and looking forward to the challenge," said Onofrio, who will greet 30 lettermen next week. "We're looking forward to having a good team."

BOSTON (AP) — The New England Colonials of the Atlantic Coast Football League have filed a $4.2 million suit against the World Football League and have asked the court to restrain former Colonials players from working in the WFL.

Colonials President Richard Cahill said the suit, filed in U.S. District Court on Wednesday, charges the WFL with violating both the Sherman Act and contractual agreements with Colonials players.

Smith does it all

ST. LOUIS (AP) — "I can't help it if I get hurt," the St. Louis Cardinals' Reggie Smith insisted. "I can't play the game any other way."

And the 29-year-old Smith, ignoring his current injury, was at his reckless best again Wednesday night as his team downed the San Diego Padres 5-1 in the National League.

Smith, who is swinging the Cards' most productive bat, blasted a three-run homer to cap a five-run fifth inning at the expense of Padres starter Randy Jones, 7-17.

But as important to Cards right-hander Alan Foster, who pitched a six-hitter, were fielding gems by Smith in the second and sixth innings.

After Smith speared Fred Kendall's line drive to start a second-inning double play he hobbled to short right field and sprawled to the AstroTurf to grab Derrel Thomas' drive with two Padres aboard in the sixth.

"That saved me two runs and got me out of a jam," acknowledged Foster, 7-7, who two innings later served a home run pitch to Nate Colbert.

"It probably gave me a chance to complete the game," Foster added appreciatively. "There were other good plays, but that was the key."

Limping for two weeks, Smith is enduring a badly bruised right hip suffered sliding in a game against the Philadelphia Phillies as his latest in a series of woes.

He remained in the lineup the next night only to be sidelined for 10 games when struck on the bruise while standing next to the batting cage in Pittsburgh on Aug. 2.

"It was just when I was beginning to hit well again, too," lamented Smith, who was earlier out of the Cards' lineup for 15 days in June.

"But with all that's happened I've still been able to get in more than 100 games," noted the muscular outfielder, who is hitting .318. "I've just had to learn to play with the pain."

Smith's big blow, his 17th homer, was accompanied by run-producing hits off the bats of Mike Tyson and Ted Sizemore as the Cards moved 1½ games ahead of Philadelphia in the NL East.

"We scored four runs with two outs," observed Manager Red Schoendienst, who was pleased.

"That's what it takes to win," added Schoendienst, whose team had lost five of its seven previous games. "That's unusual for us, at least lately anyway."

Missouri had the worst quail season in a decade in 1973, but it still was a fine season for most hunters. The 1974 prospects depend on weather, with peak hatches in June and August. Extremely wet or extremely dry conditions can have a bad effect on nesting quail.

Local star teams win

Sikeston's Little League teams entered in the Scott City invitationals posted easy wins during action Wednesday night.

In the 9-10 year old division, the local all-stars skunked Cape Rivermen 14-0 behind the no hit gem of Bert Perry, who was backed by a 14 hit barrage paced by Steven Green and Dewey Bickford.

Cape Blues zipped past Jackson 13-3 and Illmo-Scott City defeated Benton 17-7 in other division encounters. Tonight's 9-10 year old schedule has the Cape Blues battling the Sikeston Aces at 6 p.m.; Benton going against Oran at 7:30; and Illmo- Scott City colliding with the Sikeston all-stars at 9.

Sikeston's 11-12 year old all-stars and Aces also won. The Aces dumped Chaffee 12-4 and the stars defeated the Cape Nationals 5-1.

Scott Campbell limited the Nationals to five hits and joined with Andy Rogers to lead the team in hitting, slamming key doubles in the encounter.

The Aces got a seven hit pitching performance from Undra Lane and used the big bats of Jerry Lasater and Mike King to deliver the knockout blows. Lasater had four singles and King connected for a single, double and triple.

The schedule has both Sikeston teams competing tonight. The All-Stars collide with Lutesville at 6; Chaffee faces Jackson at 7:30 and the Aces meet Scott City at 9. Box Scores:

Inmates on hunger strike are brought to Scott jail

BENTON — Two Cape County jail inmates in Jackson were transferred Wednesday to Scott County jail for their participation in a two- day hunger strike that culminated Tuesday night when the pair slashed their arms aparently with razor blades and broken glass.

Chief Deputy W. S. Wickham said Leroy Herbert Jones, 28, of Jackson, and John Albert Ing, 19, of Cape Girardeau were brought to Benton where they will be kept in separate cells away from other prisoners.

Cape County Deputy Wickham, who was called to the jail when the disturbance occurred about 8:30, said the pair suffered superficial cuts which did not require the attention of a physician.

Deputy Wickham, who was called because Sheriff Ivan E. McLain is on vacation, said Lt. Warren Rauh cleaned and dressed the cuts and the two were attended to again this morning. He said Ing cut both arms and Jones only one.

The deputy said Jones and Ing, who were in a cell with David Joe Louis Davis, 21, of Cape Girardeau, refused to eat beginning Monday. Ing's brother, David Ing, 21, and Randy Wayne Peters, 22, both of Cape Girardeau, also refused to eat, apparently in sympathy of the other two, the deputy said. He said Davis was not involved in either the hunger strike or the disturbance.

Deputy Wickham said after the disturbance all four agreed to start eating again. He said the four gave no reason for the hunger strike.

The Ing brothers are being held without bond for failure to appear in court. Jones is being held in lieu of $2,000 bond on a second - degree burglary charge and Peters is being held without bond for parole violation, arrest reports show.

Matches were sold in Hanchow, China from A.D. 970 and called "fire-inch-sticks". Marco Polo witnessed their use during his trip to China in the 13th century.

Pasley calls for change in school opening dates

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — State tourism chief James Pasley called for revision of school opening dates throughout the state Wednesday, claiming early back-to-school schedules are costing the state money.

"Many tourist-serving businesses, including hotels, attractions and restaurants, depend on student manpower during the summer and they depend on family vacationers for much of their business," Pasley said in a statement, adding, "with school starting early, the employes are gone and with children back in school the family vacation season is cut short, so many of their customers are gone also."

Noting that 84 per cent of Missouri schools now open prior to labor day, Pasely said, "with tourism a billion dollar business in Missouri, anything which cuts into the peak of the travel season is bound to have serious economic consequences."

Loss of tourism business because of early school openings is cutting back on tax revenue, Pasley said.

"This loss of tax revenue means less money for the state's general revenue and less money to support the schools."

With the multiple problems facing public education in Missouri, ranging from the monetary to compliance with many fedeal requirements, state education officials have indicated the question of school openings is a local one.

Many of the schools are opening early so they can be closed longer during the winter during hazardous weather and during fuel shortages.

Pasley contended that early school openings are inefficient regarding energy conservation because air conditioned schools must use their facilities in the hot weather.

He said he preferred that schools start after Labor Day and run later in the spring.

IRS rule changes reflect inflation

WASHINGTON (AP) --Reflecting the higher cost of gasoline, the Internal Revenue Service Wednesday announced increases in mileage allowances for the use of automobiles for business, moving and medical purposes.

All the increases are effective for the 1974 tax year.

The IRS said that, effective back to Jan. 1, 1974, it will allow an increase of 3 cents per mile, for a total of 15 cents, for the first 15,000 miles an automobile is used for business purposes.

It said it will allow an increase of one cent per mile, for a total of 10 cents , for each additional mile over 15,000 miles.

Persons using their automobiles for medical and charitable purposes will be allowed an increase of one cent a mile for a total of seven cents. The same increase is allowed for automobiles used in moving.

In addition, the IRS announced an $8 increase for a total of $44, in the per - diem allowance for employes traveling away from home on business purposes.

The allowances for mileage and travel expenses can be included in deductions a taxpayer claims on his tax return.

Dr. Lamb
Gimick diets will never die

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Recently in our paper there was an article about a new vitamin E plus C diet which was supposed to give fast weight loss. Reading the article convinced me that it was another scheme to defraud gullible fat people who were so eager to reduce that they were willing to try anything. I am enclosing this article, and I hope you will comment on it, either pro or con, according to its merits.

DEAR READER — I can't find much fault in your impression. These ads are now sweeping the country, listed as a "new vitamin E discovery" or the E plus C diet. The list of foods in the diet shows that it is another low-carbohydrate diet of the same type used by Dr. Atkins or earlier by Dr. Taller in "Calories Don't Count." Dr. Taller ran into legal problems with his diet, and the Atkins diet has been branded by knowledgeable and leading nutritionists in the country as unscientific and dangerous.

Such diets work because the person eats fewer calories. Many high protein foods, lean steak for example, contain a lot of water. Lean raw round steak is 70 per cent water and a pound has only 600 calories.

These diets also cause the body to lose too much salt through the kidneys. Your body is more than 50 per cent water normally (your lean muscles are also 70 per cent water), and when you lose salt, water goes with it. The loss of too much salt and water leads to fatigue, faintness and a chemical disturbance of the body. You can recover from this by adding carbohydrates in a normal amount to your diet and then regain your normal amount of salt and water.

The vitamins in the so-called E and C diet do not do a thing to cause a person to lose weight. That is pure hokum. It is a good idea to take vitamins, though, if one is on a poor or unbalanced diet that limits all those important vegetables, cereals, fruits and milk with their essential vitamins and minerals. Such unbalanced diets are deficient in vitamins and minerals.

The ad you sent me claims one can lose a pound a day. That may be true if you lose too much of your water and salt or if you start losing your important muscle mass. That means loss of protein from YOUR BODY. There are 3,500 calories in a pound of fat. Even if you ate nothing at all and were starved completely, your body would not use that many calories a day so you can't lose a pound of FAT a day with any of these diets. The misleading statement is "a pound a day," but the question is A POUND OF WHAT? You have to be very active to use 3,500 calories a day, and if you are starving you won't feel like being that active. When you see any ad stating you will lose a pound a day, raise your index of suspicion to the red alert level.

If you lose muscle and cells from vital organs in the body, you are in trouble. Muscle tissue uses more calories even when it is resting than fat tissue does. Keeping a good muscular body helps you keep from getting fat. Unsound diets that cause you to lose part of your muscles fix your body so you use less calories at rest. Then you have to eat a lot less to keep from getting fat. These diets then make it likely that you will have a diet and obesity problem thereafter.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on losing weight, send 50 cents to the same address and ask for "Losing Weight" booklet.

Descendants wanted to share $46,000

CHICAGO — An estate valued at approximately $46,000 is searching throughout the states of Missouri and Illinois for sisters and brothers of Edward and Lulu (nee Bonhardt) Mayhugh or their descendants, to share in the "orphan fortune."

This became known here today when Gordon L. Cox, probate genealogist, 120 W. Madison, who specializes in tracing missing relatives to settle estates, took over the search with only clues from the past to guide him.

"Edward Mayhugh," Cox said, "was born in Edwardsville, Ill., Aug. 22, 1869. His wife Lulu was born in Sikeston, Mo. on Dec. 13, 1874, the daughter of Fritz (or Frederick) A. Bonhardt, who was born in about 1850, and his wife Rebecca, nee Narrick (or Narrix), who was born in about 1842.

"While we have been unable to ascertain whether Edward Mayhugh had any brothers or sisters," Cox continued, "there is indication that Lulu Bonhardt Mayhugh had three sisters and one brother.

A sister named Anna was born about 1869 and married a Lee Ward July 5, 1888 in Scott County, Mo. Pauline F. Bonhardt was born on Dec. 23, 1872 in Scott County, Mo., and Leonora B. Bonhardt was born in about 1874. Otto Bonhardt was born about 1880.

"We are searching for these sisters and brother, if they are still living, or any others about whom we are unaware, or their descendants, who would be entitled to share in the tidy sum."

Cox said he is also seeking people who may have known the Mayhughs or Bonhardts, or members of their families, and can give information which will help the heirs claim the money about which they are obviously unaware.

Prayer for today

from the Upper Room

"Do not be deceived; God is not mocked, for whatever a man sows, that he will also reap." (Galationa 6:7)

PRAYER: Christ, help me to cease from my self -defense and alibis and really face myself as You see me. It is painful but help me to know my faults, for I long to be made whole. Amen.

Standard will offer filmstrips to schools

A remarkable classroom learning tool will be provided this year as a public service by The Daily Standard for the young people in the junior and senior high schools of this area.

It consists of a series of filmstrips tied in with current events and developed by The Associated Press, world's largest news gathering organization, and with Scott Education, which has specialized experience in the educational filmstrip field.

The service, called Special Report, is distributed once a month during most of the school year. The Daily Standard will meet the costs involved in the project.

Each strip, shown by teachers to their students in such courses as social studies, history, current events and civics, are in color and have a commentary in sound.

The strips are professionally produced and attractive enough to hold interest in subjects where student interest is sometimes hard to come by.

Many Speical Report programs have won awards during the past several years, and have won enthusiastic endorsement from educators across the nation.

Subjects scheduled for the coming school year include alcholism and its effect on society, the background on the Middle East crisis, the labor movement today, the role of the lobbyist in the law-making process, the rights of personal privacy, socialism andthe welfare state, and the nation's court system.

State No. 1 in Zinc

ROLLA — For the first time in over half a century, Missouri ranks as No. 1 in zinc mining in the nation, according to Dr. Wallace B. Howe, state geologist and director of the Research and Technical Information Divisin of the Department of Natural Resources.

Contributing to Missouri's No. 1 position in 1973 is a 33 per cent increase in mine production plus an assist from mine closings and other production curtailments in two major zinc- producing states -- New York and Tennessee.

The 82,350 tons of zinc produced by Missouri mines last year is the largest tonnage since 1917 when 133,000 tons were mined. The record high for the state is 156,000 tons mined in 1916.

Present production is entirely from the Southeast Missouri lead district, while earlier production was mainly from the Tri-State zinc- lead district of southwestern Missouri. For all but two of the 43 years between 1875 and 1917, Missouri was the leading zinc mining state in the United States.

A shift from the Joplin area to the Picher field in Oklahoma and Kansas in 1918 resulted in a sharp decline in Missouri's zinc production. The last significant zinc production from southwestern Missouri was in 1957, and in 1970 all mining in the Tri- State district terminated with the closing of the Swalley mine in Kansas.

Improved metallurgy in the Lead Belt of the Southeast Missouri lead district in the 1920s made possible the recovery of increasing amounts of byproduct zinc in periods of favorable prices. In the 1960s the significance of the zinc content in the lead ores of the Viburnum trend became apparent as each new mine came on-stream

Zinc is an essential metal in the industrial economy, with principal uses in alloys and galvanizing, says Dr. Howe. Total zinc consumption in the United States in 1973 increased six per cent over 1972's consumption. About 50 per cent of the U. S. demand is from imported ore concentrates and metal.

More than half of the total inputs are supplied by Canada. U.S. mine production supplies about 25 per cent of the total demand. In 1973, domestic mine production amounted to 479,000 tons, with Missouri supplying 17 per cent. The remainder was recovered from scrap and government stockpiles.

About 20 per cent of the total U. S. zinc consumption is recovered from scrap. Of the estimated scrap available, only 30 per cent is recycled and, to date, recycling has been largely restricted to new scrap. Old scrap contributes less than five per cent of the nation's annual consumption.

A tight ore market and higher energy costs for smelting are two factors that will bring about greater utilization of scrap.

St. Joe Minerals Corp. has been the largest U. S. mine producer of both zinc and lead in recent years. Zinc shortages are reflected in continuously rising prices which have climbed from an annual average of 14.6 cents in 1969 to 20.6 cents in 1973. With suspension of price and wage controls, the price has since skyrocketed to as much as 40 cents per pound this month.

The leading zinc- producing states, which account for 69 per cent of the total U. S. mine production, in their 1973 order, are: Missouri, New York, Tennessee, Colorado and Idaho.

Although it appears that New York is destined to be No. 1 in 1974, Dr. Howe believes that Missouri will continue as a major zinc producer for many years, competing with Tennessee and Colorado for second or third position. It is not inconceivable though that new zinc- lead ore deposits like those in the Tri- State district will be found in Missouri.

Council ring dedicated

SILVA — The Order of Arrow Lodge dedicated a new council fire ring Saturday night at Camp Lewallen for the Southeast Missouri Council of Boy Scouts of America.

The special ceremony was conducted in memory of August "Doc" Eugas, a volunteer scout leader for 33 years in Troop 3, sponsored by Centenary Methodist Church in Cape Girardeau.

Eugas earned the rank of Eagle Scout and continued in scouting as assistant scoutmaster of the troop. Bill Copanas, scoutmaster of Troop 3 for the last 12 years, led the program honoring Eugas.

Dr. James Kinder was on the program to explain how he had served as a chairman of the memorial fund committee which collected over $2,000 to finance the construction of the bleacher type seats.

Several Cape Girardeau organizations assisted in completing the project.

A plaque listing achievements of Eugas' scout career was mounted in stone.

L. A. Stainhoff coordinated the workers who completed the bulldozing and installation of seats for the arena.

An Explorer post from Tulsa, Okla., performed Indian dances in full costume as a part of the program. Over 200 scouts were camping at Camp Lewallen to complete requirements to join the Order of Arrow Lodge of Honor Campers.

Three hurt

FREDERICKTOWN -- Three persons received minor injuries Wednesday in a one-car accident three miles south of town on Highway 67.

The highway patrol reported that the accident occured at 2:45 when Paul Barsi, 28, of St. Charles lost control of his southbound car which ran off the road during a rainstorm and struck a dirt embankment.

Barsi received minor injuries, as did passengers Marilyn Barsi, 33, and Bradley Barsi, 1, of St. Charles. All three were taken to Madison County Memorial Hospital here for treatment.

What's the law?

The case of the gay bandito

By JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Steverino sashayed daintly into Harry's liquor store and, in a high sing -song soprano voice, announced: "Your money or your life."

Whereupon, Steverino produced a shiny pistol and Harry produced all of his money.

A short time later, Steverino fell into the hands of the law and , after questioning, was charged with having robbed Harry's liquor store.

In court, he -man Harry looked at eyelash fluttering Steverino and testified:

"Sure! That's the cream -puff that came into my store. And, while I gave him all my money, he didn't scare me for one minute. If I had blown a kiss at him, he would have fallen over."

Whereupon, Steverino's attorney demanded that the charges against his client be dismissed.

"Under the law," he argued, "robbery is the taking of property by force or fear. If Harry wasn't afraid of my client, obviously, there wasn't robbery."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you dismiss the charges against eyelash fluttering Steverino?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that despite Harry's bravado, there was no question that he was scared by Steverino. For after all, noted the judge, men do not ordinarily give up their hard -earned cash to a stranger who threatens them with a gun except out of fear of bodily harm.

Today in U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, Aug. 15, the 227th day of 1974. There are 138 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1914, the Panama Canal oficially was opened to traffic.

On this date:

In 1769, Napoleon Bonaparte was born on the island of Corsica.

In 1936, humorist Will Rogers and aviator Wiley Post were killed in the crash of their airplane near Point Barrow, Alaska.

In 1944, the Allied invasion of southern France began in World War II.

In 1947, the independent states of India and Pakistan were created, ending two centuries of British rule on the Indian subcontinent.

In 1948, the independent Republic of Korea was proclaimed.

In 1961, East German workers began building the Berlin Wall.

Ten years ago: President Lyndon B. Johnson attacked Republican presidential candidate Barry Goldwater for what Johnson called Goldwater's "loose statements" on atomic defense.

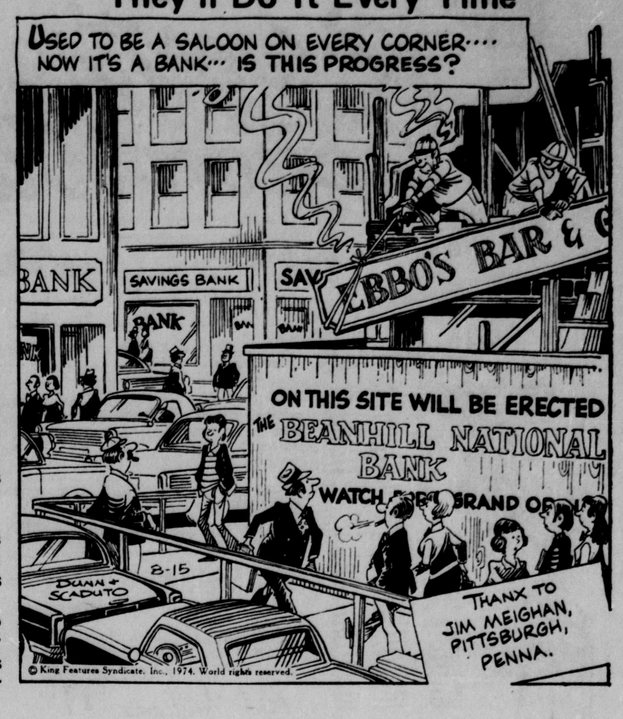

Five years ago: Arab saboteurs blew up an oil pipeline in the Israeli city of Haifa.

One year ago: President Nixon, in a national broadcast, denied any part in the Watergate break-in or cover-up and said the time had come to turn Watergate over to the courts and "for the rest of us to get on with the urgent business of our nation."

Today's birthdays: Britain's Princess Anne is 24 years old. Cooking expert Julia Child is 62.

Thought for today: To recommend thrift to the poor is like advising a man who is starving to eat less — Oscar Wilde, Irish writer, 1854-1900.

Fruits and vegetables, as they ripen, tend to increase in water content. An apple seed, only 10 per cent water, will produce a ripe apple that is 80 per cent water. A ripe pineapple is 87 per cent water, a tomato is 95 per cent, and a watermelon is 97 per cent water.

On the other hand, a herring is 67 per cent water, a chicken 75 per cent, a frog 78 per cent, a lobster 79 per cent, an earthworm 80 per cent, and man has 70 per cent of his body weight in water.

Water is as vital as the air we breathe, yet we are careless with it. We pollute and waste it. By the time it reaches our homes, it contains every chemical and compound known to man. It is no longer the clean, fresh water that forms in the clouds.

Enjoy the best — try refined water. It's like drinking from a fresh mountain stream. For a home demonstration call Braswell.

U.S. citizens will be able to buy, sell and hold gold as of Dec. 31

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. citizens will be able legally to buy, sell and hold gold as of Dec. 31 for the first time since 1934.

President Ford signed legislation on Wednesday lifting the ban imposed during the worldwide depression of the 1930s, when the United States went off the monetary gold standard.

The action meant victory in a long campaign waged principally by conservative members of Congress, representatives from mining states and citizens who see the metal as a desirable hedge against inflation and the gyrating values of stocks and other investments.

Some economists argue that gold yields no interest and usually costs money to store and insure.

How and where will Americans be able to buy the precious metal?

Minutes after the signing was announced, Samuel Weiss & Co., a member of the New York Stock Exchange, said it had begun taking orders for gold from the public and other exchange members. Weiss was the first member firm to be authorized by the exchange as a bullion agent and the company said it had made arrangements with a minerals concern to sell gold bars in sizes ranging from ½ troy ounce to 50 ounces.

A spokesman at Weiss said the firm's bullion prices would be tied to the rapidly fluctuating gold prices quoted in world markets and would include the firm's own commission of 6 or 7 per cent. The closing price in London on Wednesday was $157.50 an ounce.

You won't have to go to the stock exchange to buy gold, however. Commercial gold dealers, commodities exchanges and coin dealers began making plans for the legalization of gold even before the legislation passed Congress.

A spokesman for Handy and Harman, a New York gold dealer which until now sold only to jewelry manufacturers and other industrial users, said earlier this year his firm would market gold in sizes from half an ounce up.

He said people probably would be able to send for the gold through the mail or purchase it like any other item.

The spokesman said the gold would be 24 carat—99.95 per cent pure gold—and probably would be advertised much like silver.

John Flynn of Perera Fifth Avenue Inc., which deals in currency and foreign exchange, said his company was making plans to buy gold from refiners, have it made into the shape of ingots and sell it in sizes from one to 100 ounces.

The commodities exchanges readied contracts for gold futures. Mark J. Powers, senior vice president of the International Monetary Market of the Chicago Mercantile Exchange, said the contracts probably would be traded in amounts of 100 ounces.

Legal gold trading could begin earlier than Dec. 31. The President has authority under existing law to permit it if he finds that such transactions would not disrupt the U.S. international monetary position. There has been no indication, however, that such a finding is in the offing.

Since 1934, the only legal gold traffic in the United States has been for manufacturing, dental, artistic and similar purposes.

The bill Ford signed basically provides for a $1.5 billion U.S. contribution, over four years, to the International Development Association. The gold provision was added as a rider.

The average yield per acre of 29 bushels is one bushel below the 1973 yield.

Cotton production is estimated at 300,000 bales, compared to 180,000 last year and 439,000 in 1972. The 1974 harvested acreage of 325,000 acres is up from the 173,000 acres harvested one year ago. Yield per acre in 1974 of 443 pounds is 58 pounds below the average yield in 1973.

Turks take city and Greek base

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Turkish Cypriot radio said Turkish forces captured the eastern Cyprus port city of Famagusta today and the Greek Cypriot naval base in the Boghaz area 10 miles to the north.

It also said a Turkish assault for Lefka began on the western part of Cyprus, and Turkish forces launched attacks on the eastern and western approaches of Nicosia, the capital.

The moves against Famagusta, Nicosia and Lefka seemed to be further confirmation that Turkish invasion forces were trying to bisect Cyprus along an east-west line that would slice off the northern third of the island to create a Turkish autonomous region.

Famagusta, the second largest city on Cyprus and its most important port, is 35 miles east of Nicosia. Lefka is 20 miles west of the capital.

"We are in a desperate situation, ready to clutch at any straw to save ourselves or preserve as much as we can," a senior Cyprus government official said.

Associated Press correspondent Peter Arnett reported from Famagusta that Turkish tanks rolled into the outskirts of the city at mid-afternoon, firing a few salvos at a British outpost as they passed by.

He said the British evacuated the outpost without casualties.

Arnett said the news of the Turkish approach apparently had gone ahead because many Greek soldiers were running through the streets, away from the advance.

The Turkish Cypriot broadcast said Turkish warships and jets joined the battle for Famagusta earlier in the day.

In Athens, Foreign Miniters George Mavros said U.S. military bases in Greece are protected by bilateral agreements and expressed doubt that such agreements can be broken.

The renewed fighting on Cyprus, which started at dawn, shattered a cease-fire agreed to by both sides Wednesday night. The lull lasted only through the hours of darkness.

The camp of the 950-strong Greek army contingent, permanently based on Cyprus, was one of the main targets of the assault, and fighting raged at midday.

The camp, known as the Eldyk, is on the main western highway to Morphou. It lies two miles outside the capital, about a mile from the perimeter of Cyprus airport, still in Greek hands.

Another area heavily hit was a five-mile string of factories on the east side of Nicosia, stretching between the main roads to Famagusta in the east and Larnaca to the south.

The invading Turks reached Famagusta, 35 miles east of Nicosia, earlier in the day. But the Greek Cypriots claimed they halted the other arm of the Turkish drive to cut off the northern third of Cyprus — a force moving toward Lefka on the northwest coast 20 miles from the capital.

Famagusta was under under heavy Turkish and artillery attack. But U.N. soldiers discounted a claim by the Turkish Cypriot radio that armored units had broken through to the Turkish Cypriots in the old walled medieval sector of Famagusta, the second largest city on Cyprus and the island's most important port.

Cyprus President Glafcos Clerides called a conference of Greek Cypriot leaders to probe their reactions on concessions the Turks are expected to demand because of their overwhelming military presence on Cyprus.

A senior Cyprus government official who declined to be identified said: "Since the big powers and the U.N. Security Council appear unwilling to take any practical step to defend the very existence, let alone the territorial integrity of an independent Cyprus, we are in a desperate situation, ready to clutch at any straw to save ourselves or preserve as much as we can."

Turkish Premier Bulent Ecevit said after a meeting with U.S. Ambassador William Macomber in Ankara the United States felt "the most satisfactory and enduring solution to the Cyprus problem would be for the establishment of two separate autonomous regions" for the Greek and Turkish communities on Cyprus.

Church sworn in as manager

Charles Church, 29, was sworn in as Sikeston's third city manager at 9 a.m. today during a special City Council meeting.

Church immediately plunged into a busy schedule of meeting people and familiarizing himself with Sikeston.

"We're glad to be here," Church told the council. "We're very impressed with Sikeston and we're sure we'll enjoy living here."

Church said he is looking forward to the challenge of the position and getting to know the people with whom he will be working.

Bill Whitlock, who has been acting city manager since Oct. 1, 1973, when Jim Huff resigned, said the city is fortunate to have Church as the new city manager.

In addition to Huff, who served one year, Church was preceded by Ramert Miller, who became the first city manager in 1961 and served 11 years.

Mayor Frank Ferrell thanked Whitlock for the work he had put in as acting city manager during the past year. Whitlock will return to the post of assistant city manager now that Church has arrived.

Church, his wife Carol Linn and daughter Jori Linn have moved into a new house at 932 N. W. St. in Hunter Acres West subdivision.

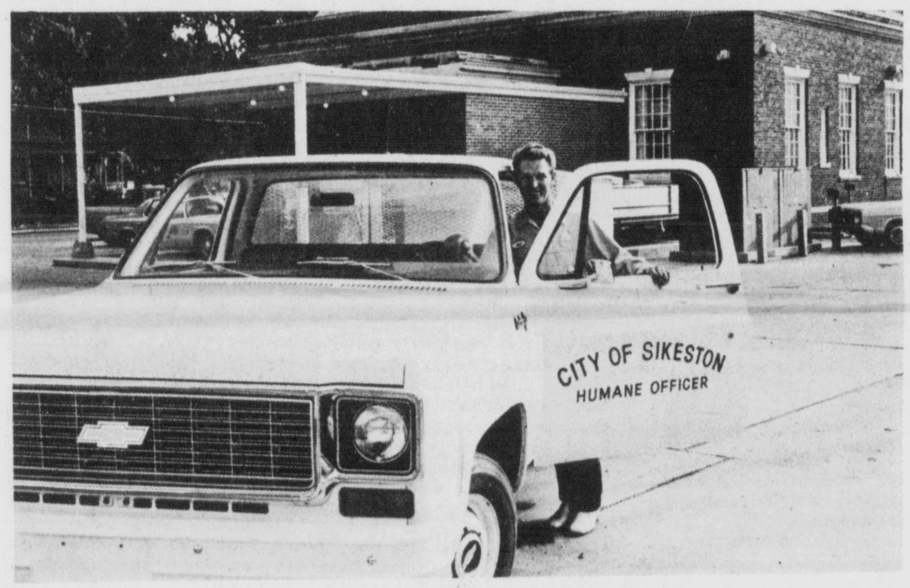

Church, a native of Wheat Ridge Colo., received a bachelor of arts degree in political science from Doane College in Crete, Neb., and a master's degree in public administration in 1968 from University of Colorado in Boulder. He has been city manager at DeSoto since 1971.

The council passed a resolution urging the Missouri Highway Commission to proceed with planning and construction of an interchange at Route HH and Interstate Highway 55.

The interchange is being sought to help provide a north loop around the city and relieve traffic congestion on Malone Avenue as well as open the northeast part of town for new development.

The council decided to review solid waste contracts and specifications for waste removal at a later meeting.

Whitlock said the city has an old contract in its files the council might want to see. He said the contract might easily be revised to fit the city's plans.

Nixon subpoenaed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon was subpoenaed today to appear as a witness for John D. Ehrlichman in the Watergate cover-up trial.

It was the first legal action involving Nixon since he became a private citizen.

The subpoena was presented to U.S. District Court and was signed by Andrew C. Hall, Ehrlichman's lawyer.

It has not yet been served on the former president, who could send his lawyers to court to ask that the subpoena be dismissed.

The subpoena said:

"You are commanded to appear in U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia ... on the 9th day of September, 1974, at 9:30 a.m. to testify on behalf of John D. Ehrlichman ... and to remain until called."

It was addressed to Nixon at the "Presidential compound, San Clemente, Calif.," where the former president has been since resigning his office last Friday.

A U.S. marshal will deliver the subpoena to the compound after it is sent to California from Washington, a lawyer in the case said.

The federal grand jury that indicted Ehrlichman, Nixon's former domestic counselor, and six other former White House and political aides, also named Nixon himself as an unindicted co-conspirator in the cover-up.

There had been repeated subpoenas for Nixon's records while he served in the White House. Circumstances are different now because he no longer has the protection of the office as grounds for resisting such a call.

The cover-up grand jury has been meeting in recent weeks, and a big question is whether it will indict Nixon now that he is no longer president.

Spokesmen for the Watergate special prosecution force say no decision has been made on whether to seek an indictment, and that no action is expected in the near future.

Scott County included

Mental health grant awarded

FARMINGTON — A federal hospital Improvement Program grant of nearly $300,000 has been awarded by the National Institute of Mental Health to Farmington State Hospital. It is set up to provide community based mental health services for people in outlying sections of the hospital's service area.

The grant will enable the hospital to train and place qualified field workers in regions where the distances to and from Farmington create problems for people needing immediate services.

Scott County is one of the areas selected for this project, according to Donald L. Barton, the hospital Social Service director and author of the grant. Workers in the outreach program will be chosen from their own counties where they will return after receiving a month's training at Farmington State Hospital.

Eligible to apply are persons with college degrees, professional health workers, people with teaching or social work backgrounds and those with unusual skills in working with people and/or communities. Applications may be sent to Donald Barton at Farmington State Hospital, Farmington, Mo. 63640.

The grant is funded to become operative Sept. 1, with the staff to include a project supervisor, six outreach workers and one clerical helper. Counties to be served include Butler, Cape Girardeau, Dent, Howell, Scott and Wayne. Purpose of the program is: (1) to bring hospital services closer to the community where the patient lives, (2) to provide more continuity for people receiving outpatient and family care services, and (3) to try to mobilize community interest around mental health concerns and needs.

Farmington is located at almost the northern extremity of the hospital's 28- county service area covering over 18,000 square miles of southeast and south central Missouri. Within this area there are approximately 492,000 people. For many of them the cost, transportation and time involved in getting to Farmington is prohibitive.

Bootheel farmers seek drought disaster aid

Over 1,000 farmers in three Bootheel counties have applied for federally -sponsored disaster payments because of recent drought conditions. Many more applications are expected as farmers harvest their crops.

In Stoddard County, 516 requests have been received and "we're getting more every day," David Holland, assistant director of Stoddard County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS), said.

The number has reached 575 in Scott County, a spokesman at the county ASCS office said. No applications have been made in New Madrid County because "farmers didn't plant in the spring due to wet weather, or lost their crops because of it," Ginny Wather of the New Madrid ASCS said.

George Roberts, executive director of the Mississippi County ASCS today said that there had been a few applications for low wheat yields, but "they weren't serious enough to qualify for the disaster payments."

Results of the drought are evident mainly on the corn crops, he said, but the extent of the damage or how many will apply for disaster payments won't be known until they start picking.

The disaster payments program is new this year, having been includend in the four- year farm legislation program Congress passed last year.

Disaster payments can be made only for allotment acreages of wheat, corn, grain sorghum, barley or upland cotton when natural disaster has prevented planting or has resulted in abnormally low yields.

Application should be made at the county ASCS office whenever a producer believes his allotment crops have been adversely affected by natural disaster.

Application must be made no later than 15 days after completion of harvest in order to qualify for a disaster payment.

Farmers with feed grain and wheat allotments, who have not already certified their acreage under the allotment programs, will be permitted to certify at the time they apply for disaster payments.

Cotton growers must certify acreage by Sept. 1, in order to qualify for any cottong program benefits, including disaster payments.

Since an inspection must be made to help determine the extent of damage, producers are being cautioned not to plow up or otherwise dispose of the crop residue until receiving permission from the county ASCS office.

Vowels exphasized that without a field inspection, the disaster payment amount cannot be determined and therefore it is essential to the producer that he wait for permission before destroying the crop residue.

Disaster payments are processed by the county ASCS office as soon as qualification for payment and extent of loss are determined.

Vowels pointed out that the program was not meant to provide full conpensation for losses suffered because of natural disaster, but said the payments will help tide producers through a difficult period.

Man hospitalized

Ron Grojean, 814 William St., was injured about 11:45 a.m. today when his automobile struck a pickup truck at Turner Street and Highway 62 East in front of the Learue and McKinney M&H Store.

He was taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital for treatment of possible head injuries.

Grojean was eastbound when his car struck the side of a pickup driven by Francis Adams, Route Two. Adams was making a left turn onto the highway and pulled across the eastbound lane into Grojean's path.

Adams told Minor police his view of the road was blocked by cars parked in the grocery store parking lot and he did not see Grojean's car. Miner police officer said the last two accidents at that location were also caused by parked cars blocking the view.

The front end of Grojean's car was demolished. The pickup truck was damaged.

Spraying scheduled

NEW MADRID — Aerial spraying for mosquito control in the city is scheduled between 6 and 8 a.m. Saturday, if weather conditions are favorable, according to Jim Woods of Farmers Ag Service.

Woods said that if the spraying is not completed Saturday, it will be continued during the same hours on Sunday.

This will be the second aerial spraying of the summer to combat the mosquito problem, and Woods said it might be necessary to spray again in about a month.

East Prairie man is patrol recruit

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Two women and six blacks were among the 30 recruits named today by the state Highway Patrol for its academy class beginning Sept. 1.

Capt. John Little, head of the training division, said the women are the first in the patrol's history to be accepted for training as troopers, while the black cadets form the largest minority percentage in a patrol recruit class.

Patricia R. Wright, 22, Columbia, one of the two women, is believed to be the first woman to apply for a post as a trooper. She is a graduate of Northeast Missouri State University in Kirksville and is a security guard at the University of Missouri in Columbia.

The other woman is Bridget Ann Cronin, St. Louis.

"We didn't really consider women as troopers until about January of this year. But then the superintendent decided we would treat them the same as others," Little said.

The large number of black recruits was the result of an intense recruiting program by the patrol.

The patrol was criticized last spring because of the lack of minority representation in its ranks.

Only five of the present 744 troopers are black.

"The program was very successful," Little said, "and we will continue this program until we get a proportionate share of blacks in the highway patrol as compared to the percentage of blacks in the state of Missouri."

The 28 men chosen for the recruit class are:

Gerald Bonner of Kansas City, William D. Bourg of St. Louis, William V. Cottom of Theodosia, Ronald P. Dempsay of Canton, Oliver Dixon of East Prairie.

Donald R. Frey of Pevely, Gary R. Heskett of St. Louis, Mervyn E. J. Horne of Kansas City, Gregory Alan Hug of Affton, Charles E. Johnson of St. Louis, Terrence R. LeBaron of Willow Springs.

Larry C. White of St. Charles, Reginald L. Woods of Kansas City, Randall Beydler of Eldorado Springs, Edward H. Blienfnick of Benton City, Randy L. Brown of Warrensburg, Clifford R. Collier of Kirksville, Jackie D. Danley of Ozark, David V. Gisel of Warrensburg, Everett D. Hartung of Columbia, Steven W. Rahn of St. Louis.

James E. Schulte of Columbia, Dale S. Stewart of Bolivar, Roger D. Stottlemyre of Mt. Pleasant, Iowa; Charles R. Jckson of Evanston, Ill.; Wayne T. Trantham of Springfield, James D. Whitfield of Jefferson City, Larry Dean Wolters of Springfield.

DON'T TAMPER WITH
U. S. MAIL

For decades, U. S. Postal Inspectors have been respected as the top enforcement agents in the country. Like the Canadian Mounted Police they have a reputation for "getting their man."

Now Chief Postal Inspector William J. Cotter reports that his force is being backed up by the courts. He said that in recent examples the sentences show an increasing no nonsense approach by judges where postal crimes against carriers, clerks and other employees are involved.

"I believe the recent attitude of the courts toward postal offenders is critical in our attempts to protect employees from assaults and holdups," he said. "These stiffer sentences should act as a much needed deterrent on potential criminals who might otherwise prey with impunity on postal employees in the performance of their vital jobs of moving the mails."

Chief Cotter recounted that last January in the Southern District of New York three persons were given multiple sentences for an attempted hijack of a mail truck during which a postal employee was killed. The trio were sentenced to life imprisonment on the murder count; 25 years on the assault count; and five years on a conspiracy count. The sentences are to run concurrently.

He also reported that in July of last year sentences totaling 145 years were dealt out to four gunmen who held up a postal station in Baltimore.

Heavy sentences are also being meted out for sending pornographic material through the mails, Chief Cotter said.

"And," he added, "in a far- ranging investigation involving a group of active duty and former military personnel using the mails and military craft to transport heroin, several individuals have thus far been given sentences from 10 to 36 years in prison."

Too much has been reported lately of the courts handing down small sentences for criminal activities. Much has also been said about the abuse of probation and parole. It's a healthy sign to see that the courts are taking a stiffer attitude in one area. We hope it spreads so that hardened criminals cannot expect to get away with light sentences for serious crimes regardless of their nature.

"It is comforting to know," columnist George F. Will is quoted in the Public Utilities Fortnightly magazine as saying, "that there are no experts on the future and that we do not know where we are going. It also is imperative that the government, which is full of experts, acknowledge this. In government, as in everything else, wisdom begins with knowing what it is that we do not know. If the government today commits us to long- term policies based on today's improvident long- range predictions about future economic 'realities,' we may be plunged back into the economic stagnation from which mankind has only recently emerged."

WASHINGTON --The new summer fashions for American tourists visiting Washington have recently been released, and from all indicaitons the clothes are going to be more formal than in previous years.

The source of this information was Sophie Glutz, the famous Washington tourist expert, who said, "It appears now that women will be wearing more stretch pants than Bermuda shorts when visiting the public monuments."

"Does this mean that women tourists visiting this town will no longer be wearing blue jeans and sweat shirts?"

"Oh, I wouldn't rule that out completely. In the daytime you may find a certain number of women in blue jeans and sweat shirts, as well as shorts, but in the evening they will probably change into slacks, stretch pants and blouses."

"Is it true that the short shorts are out?"

"They are after 4 o'clock. Of course, many tourists will still visit the White House and the Lincoln Memorial in short shorts, but we're recommending longer shorts for the Senate and House of Representatives.

"I think that's wise," I said. "What about skirts?"

"Skirts are awfully dressy for sightseeing in Washington, but some women will wear them with halters and bare midriffs and open -toed sandals."

"What about dresses and suits for women?"

"Heaven forbid. A woman tourist wouldn't be seen dead in a dress or suit. All the other tourists would laugh at her."

"What about styles? "

"Keeping your hair in curlers while sightseeing still seems to be the rage. The large colored plastic curlers which stick out all over your head are coming back in again."

"How about face cream?"

"It's optional. Many women tourists prefer it to suntan oil as suntan oil doesn't show as well."

"I suppose socks and stockings are out?"

"They have been for some time now, unless you're going to a state dinner at the White House."

"What's new in colors?"

"In shorts, we're recommending plaids for women who weigh more than 150 pounds. They look much better from the rear. Also, stripes are back in, at least as far as sweat shirts are concerned. The simple black toreador pants of a few years ago are definitely out."

"What about men's tourist fashions?"

"There hasn't been too much change in men's fashions this year. They'll still wear Army fatigues, bright -colored sports shirts, sneakers and baseball caps."

"And children?"

"We're not laying down any hard and fast rules on what children should wear in Washington. The National Gallery of Art has asked that children not wear bathing suits when visiting it, but you have to remember that the gallery is a very stuffy institution."

"I'm delighted to see how the standards in clothers have gone up in the nation's capital this year," I said.

"Yes, it's amazing how clothes -conscious Americans are when they visit Washington these days. It's as though they know that they're on display, and they want to look their best for

LIBERATED SISTERS
AS GUILTY AS MEN

When Sally Forth, today's liberated Ms., ventures out to make her way in the jungle of the male -dominated business or career world, it's forgottor that someone has to come into the home to clean the house watch the kids, do the laundry or maybe cook.

The fact is that today's liberated woman often depends upon another group of women - the domestic or private household employes -to free her of the housewife's chores.

The fact also is, points out Dr. Doris McLaughlin, assistant research scientist with the University of Michigan and Wayne State University, these private household employes are among the lowest paid and least protected workers in the labor force.

"More often than not," she says. "Professional women deny their household employes benefits they themselves expect -indeed, take for granted -in their own work."

Although household workers are now covered by the new statutory minimum wage of $2 an hour, less than one -third of them work full time; many work for a different employer every day; they have no paid sick time or holidays; are unemployed when their employer leaves town for any reason, and although legally entitled to them, often are eliminated from social security benefits.

The end result, says Dr. McLaughlin, is that the movement of one group of women up the economic ladder entails the economic exploitation of another group of women.

In fairness to the career women, she suggests that their lack of concern for their sisters is because their freedom is thinking of themselves as employers - a role that until quite recently was usually reserved for males.'

Until they do, says Dr. McLaughlin, "they may not even realize that in treating their household help in such a cavalier manner they are depriving other women of the same benefits that they are fighting so hard to obtain for themselves."

On his first trip to Washington, Russian Premier Kosygin was taken on a tour through the new computer room at the Pentagon. In demonstrating the machine's remarkable capabilities as a prediction unit, Kosygin was asked if he would like to ask the machine any questions.

"Why, yes," Kosygin replied.

He tumed to the machine and asked: "What will the United States be like 25 years from today?"

Within minutes, out came a printed analysis and commentary of things to come, that was simply remarkable.

Then he asked another question, "What will the U.S.S.R. be like 25 years from today?"

Out came another printed analysis. Kosygin stared at it with extreme interest.

"What does it say?" he was asked.

"I'm not sure," Kosygin answered. "I can't read it because it's in Chinese."

YOU MAY NEVER
NEED THIS ADVICE,
BUT HERE IT IS,
JUST IN CASE YOU DO

The odds are that each of us will at some time be involved in a traffic accident. If you are, do you know what you must do?

What, exactly, does being "involved in an accident" mean? "If you are behind the wheel of a vehicle that comes into physical contact with another vehicle, pedestrian or object, you are involved in an accident. If you are driving and cause or contribute to a crash by another driver, you are involved in an accident even though there is no physical contact involving your car.

"For instance, if you are double parked, a car drives on the left side of the street to avoid it, and collides with an oncoming car, you are involved in an accident. Similarly, if you pass a car and force it off the road into a pole, you are involved in an accident. Being 'involved in an accident' has nothing to do with causing it."

Tha definition and much more appear in a document prepared by Mr. Edward F. Kearney, Executive Director of the National Committee on Uniform Traffic Laws and Ordinances, to inform drivers what they must do after involvement in an accident.

First: Stop the Car

If you find yourself involved in an accident, the first thing you must do is stop immediately. The stop should be made as close to the scene as possible, but ought not to obstruct traffic any more than necessary.

Next, you must identify yourself. The law requires involved drivers to remain at the scene of the accident until they have identified themselves and aided any injured person. If, however, you must leave the scene to call an ambulance or to notify the police, be sure to leave a note attached to the vehicle in order to avoid any possible minunderstanding about your intentions.

Every driver of a vehicle involved in an accident must give all reasonable aid and assistance to any person injured in the accident.

Call Police

If any person has been injured in an accident, an involved driver must notify the nearest police station by using the quickest means of communication. This duty should be performed immediately after identifying yourself at the scene and aiding the injured. Most people call the police to summon an ambulance. This takes care of two duties at the same time.

Every driver of a vehicle which is involved in certain accidents must file a written report of the accident with the appropriate agency in the state where the accident occurred.

Gather as much information as you can at the scene of the accident. Be sure to get the names and addresses and telephone numbers of any persons involved in the accident as well as any bystanders who may have witnessed the accident.

You must also notify the company which insures the vehicle you were driving at the time of the accident. This should be done without delay.

The document concludes by admonishing all of us to follow all the rules of the road and to be prepared in case other persons do violate them. Anyone who has ever been involved in even a minor accident must agree with Mr. Kearney that "An accident is a hassle."

Vacationing motorists will be on the highways in large numbers during the month of August. With this in mind, Colonel Sam S. Smith, the Superintendent of the Missouri State Highway Patrol, today urged all motorists to take extra care to share the road with their fellow drivers.

"Many families will be vacationing this month," Smith stated. "They will be traveling to and from various parks and recreational areas. Some of these vacationing families, however, may end their vacations abruptly in an accident because a driver refused to share the road."

The Patrol Superintendent pointed out that a driver who shares the road will not drive over the speed limit, hurry through traffic, cheat at stop signs, or try to stay ahead of the other fellow. He will, instead, obey all traffic laws, show courtesy to others and avoid taking foolish chances.

"Last August, 130 persons were killed in Missouri traffic accidents," Smith noted. "Many of these people were from the same family. It behooves every driver to make the family's safety his primary consideration as he travels. I urge everyone to show extra courtesy and patience wherever he drives during the month of August."

The Tragic Enslavement of the Baltic States

Every year, Communist delegates to the United Nations bring up the question of Puerto Rico's "colonial" status and issue loud denuciatons of U.S. "oppression" of the island commonwealth. One of the purposes for this action is no doubt to draw attention away from the Soviet Union's enslavement of the three Baltic nations: Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania.

In 1940, after an agreement with Nazi Germany, Soviet troops marched into the three independent states and annexed them to the USSR. Sham elections were held, but no one was fooled. When they issued the Atlantic Charter, President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill declared that the Baltic States should be granted their independence.

This support of the three brave nations didn't last long. The U.S. quietly withdrew its demand for independence of Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania, in order to gain Soviet cooperation in the founding of the United Nations. The United Nations decolonization committee, formed largely at commuist insistence, has not even once taken up the question of the suppression of the Baltic states.

The Soviet take -over of the Baltic states was more than simple annexation. The Kremlin has a ruthless policy of stamping out the national indentity of the Baltic peoples, persecuting their religion and suppressing their culture. In the current climate of "detente" , the United States has a moral obligation to demand that the Soviet Union give a measure of independence to these captive nations, in return for all the concessions the U.S. is granting. The Big Mushroom? Is There Rational Reason To Fear Atomic Power Plants?

There are many informed persons in our leadership milieu who believes this nation can't survive unless it builds a mighty network of nuclear power plants. There are many dedicated, knowledgeable men and women who believe this nation won't survive the creation of such an atomic power grid. One scholar in the field should know best. So I asked her who is right. Here is her answer written exclusively for this column:

By Dixy Lee Ray
Chairman, U.S. Atomic Energy Commission[

WASHINGTON --A news story crossed my desk recently in which critics of nuclear energy were quoted as saying that a nuclear power plant accident in Connecticut would "take the whole state." They also claimed that a nuclear power plant can explode with 2,000 times the power of the nuclear bomb dropped on Hiroshima in World War II.Both of these statements are false and misleading.

But the story illustrates some of the problems encountered by the nuclear industry in its efforts to develop better public understanding of nuclear energy --understanding both its benefits and the dimension of its potential risks.

What is the problem?

For most people, radiation remains a sinister and mysterious force --you can't see it, smell it or feel it. Doctors and dentists use its powers routinely to help detect problems and treat them. This use of radiation is widely accepted because it is encountered in a beneficial context.

Why then the controversy over production of electricity by using nuclear fuel? I believe there is no simple explanation, but I would like to offer a few thoughts.

We cannot help but associate nuclear energy with its first use as a terribly destructive weapon of war. It is not irrational, but certainly it is incorrect, to associate nuclear power plants with the nuclear explosive. This makes as much sense as associating electricity with electrocution in the electric chair, or worrying about asphyxiation from the poisonous gas chlorine held in large supply in every city for use in treating drinking water.

Since its inception, people working in the nuclear industry have recognized the importance of their role in helping to provide the public with information about nuclear energy --what it can do to help mankind, what its hazards are (both real and imagined) and the precautions which are taken. But we realize that we have not been very effective.

On the other hand, the job of designing and constructing nuclear power plants so that they are safe has been carried out with outstanding success. Why then has the task of informing the public been so pitifully inadequate? Part of the reason for this may be that the nuclear industry has been trapped by its own jargon --"maximum credible accident," "criticality," "abnormal occurrences," "emergency core cooling," "Scram," are just a few of the terms which create fearful impressions in the minds of the public. Added to the complex terminology of physics and the equations of engineers, the result is anything but common -sense English.

Further, we have not done a very good job in placing the radiation that arises from our nuclear activities in perspective with the radiation that exists naturally in the world about us. The estimated average annual exposure to radiation in the United States in 1973 included 44 radiation units from cosmic rays; 40 from rocks, soils and building materials containing radioactive materials; and 18 units from sources (mostly potassium) that occur naturally inside our bodies. Global fallout gave us 4 radiation units, occupational activities 0.8 units, other things such as TV and air travel 2.6 units, and medical activities accounted for 73 units of radiation exposure. From nuclear power plants we received 0.003 of a unit in 1970 and by the year 2000 this exposure is projected to be 0.425 of a unit --trivial compared to the radiation that we all receive anyway

Since the first central station nuclear power plant began operation in the 1950s, the scientists and engineers who design and operate these plants have known full well that accidents could occur. They are also keenly aware of what the consequences of a nuclear accident would be. Hence there are many, many back -up systems designed into the plant so that if one fails another will automatically take over. We call it "defense in depth."

Now that some years of experience with nuclear power plants have been accumulated, we wanted to see how well this conservative "redundant system" engineering approach is working. Hence Prof. Norman Rasmussen of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology was commissioned to conduct a study on the probability of serious accidents in nuclear power plants. Preliminary results from this on -going study indicate that the melting of the fuel core in a nuclear power plant --generally considered to be the most serious accident which could occur --would not be an extraordinarily large accident, as some persons have assumed.

A comparison of annual average risk from air travel accidents and nuclear power plant accidents shows that the risk from air travel accidents is about ten thousand times that of nuclear plant accidents. As a matter of fact, the safety consciousness which is a hallmark of nuclear plants carries over to industrial type accidents. The industrial safety record at nuclear plants is far superior to fossil -fueled plants.

Nuclear power should be viewed within the confines of the total energy problem which confronts the United States. Nuclear plants now contribute about 6 per cent of the electricity generated in the U.S., but by the turn of the century these plants will be providing more than half of our electricity.

The energy decisions which face us today are difficult because no one can accurately predict the future.

Solar energy, the breeder reactor, geothermal power, and , ultimately, fusion power will be developed in the years and decades ahead, but no one can say how soon, or at what cost. Today we must rely on the fossil fuels which have traditionally powered our society and on the growing number of nuclear plants to provide for our increasing needs.

The AEC is trying to improve the flow of information about the energy options that we have, and the trade -offs which must be made when we decide whether to burn more of our irreplaceable fossil fuels --coal, oil and natural gas --or to build more nuclear plants. We also are providing information on the development of other sources of energy -- solar power, geothermal, and fusion.

The purpose of all of our information activities is to provide the public with the data needed to make informed judgments. Full and understandable information is the key ingredient to better public understanding of nuclear energy, as it is to all of our other energy technologies.

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
Colson's Ray Gun

WASHINGTON --Former presidential aide Charles Colson once considered firing a high -voltage Buck Rogers -style cannon at the White House to erase the taped conversations of Richard Nixon.

Such a "Mission: Impossible" would have wiped out the evidence on the White House tapes which led to Nixon's resignation. Colson, however, contends he never seriously pondered the scheme into action.

Despite this denial, Colson did meet twice with an industrial research consultant, Gordon Novel, and discussed the possibility of using an experimental "de -gaussing cannon" to fire a gigantic magnetic pulse at the White House tape storage room. A rough design of the ray gun, named after a magnetic measurement, was even drawn up.

"Novel talked about driving by the White House and demagnetizing all the tapes." Colson told us from prison through friends. "It was something that he said would fire three blocks."

Novel, who is also an electronics expert, told us he was visiting Colson in March on an unrelated legal matter when the talk turned to the tapes.

Colson, he said, told him that tapes at the White House and the CIA "could cause the President's grief." Novel mentioned the "de -gaussing cannon" and Colson urged him to look into it. Colson insists he gave the consultant "no encouragement."

Novel, however, obviously thought he had a mandate from Colson. He journeyed to El Paso, Tex., and spoke with Jack Prentice, innovative research and design chief for Jetco, Inc. Jetco already was marketing a metal detector using "de -gaussing" principles.

Prentice tole Novel, and confirmed to us, that he had built a prototype cannon and could construct an operational one for $25,000 to $30,000. Prentice's view was that since the tapes belonged to the President, there would be no crime in erasing them if Colson, acting for the President, okayed it.

The Jetco specialist drew up a simple plan for the "de -gaussing cannon," using capacitors, a switch, a parabotic reflector and a special heat -resistant coil. The electronic artillery piece could be housed in a van, or mounted in a light plane or helicopter.

On March 21, Novel wrote Colson that he would "forward by hand courier the known facts on the El Paso erasure matter," "the code name for the "de -gausser."

Shortly thereafter, the industrial consultant flew to Washington again and talked to one of this area's best known electronic men, Allan Bell, president of Dektor Conterintelligence and Security. Bell threw cold water on the mission, saying that it was "iffy" and "impractical."

At its best, advised Bell, the bizarre device would obliterate a few layers of tape, leaving the rest intact. At worst, it would destroy huge quantities of other taped material and scramble all computer "memories" in its path.

Since one part of the scheme was to bombard the CIA, the irresistible jolt of magnetism might blot out priceless files of Russian and Chinese agents and other espionage and security matters.

Novel went back to Colson's office with his report. Novel's assessment was that hiding in the heavy woods near the CIA, or "de -gaussing" the tapes from the tank -van while they were in transport, offered a better chance of success than magnetically bombarding the CIA or the White House from a plane.

But as Novel recalls it, they mutually decided not to pursue the plan because of its danger to national security tapes and computers near the target tapes.

Colson scoffs at the idea that the magnetic beam ever came that close to development. "I laughed at it," he said. "It was a little bit of comic relief." President Nixon, however, had fears that Colson was a sucker for just such farout ideas. In the transcripts, Nixon said Colson "loves the action ...Colson would do anything."

Footnote: Colson and Novel also discussed a caper to patch H.R. Haldeman's voice onto a tape along with an actor who would imitate President Nixon and make false confessions. The fake tape would be sent with a phony authenticating note from an allegedly disgruntled Secret Service man to the Senate Watergate Committee which, Colson surmised , would leak it. Then he and Novel would reveal the tape was fraudulent and the hoax would tend to discredit the whole case against Nixon. Colson said it was "true" he discussed this idea.

"Wouldn't that be a great gag?" his statemnent said.

BAKER'S BOMBSHELL: Bobby Baker, the former Senate aide who went to prison in a celebrated scandal of the early 1960s, has completed more than half of a book that will embarrass some present senators.

Now a successful businessman, Baker insists he isn't writing a cruel book about those who condemned him. Indeed, the book will contain many warm anecdotes about prominent political figures.

But the book will charge that Sen. Barry Goldwater, R -Ariz., now the Senate's "Mr. Clean," twisted arms for political funds when he was the Republican Senate campaign chairman.

Baker will also chide the present apostle of political reform, Sen. Sam ERvin, D -N.C., for voting consistently against reform in times past.

Baker will also point out that Sen. Carl Curtis, R -Neb., who saw no great wrong in President Nixon's conduct, lashed out against the Democrat's involved in the comparatively small -potatoes Baker case.

The former Senate boy wonder hopes to publish his book after the din of Watergate dies down.

Ann Landers

Former drug user speaks from her own experience

Dear Ann Landers: I am glad you printed that letter by the professor at the University of California. I believe his name is Hardin B. Jones. Many kids in our school talked about it.

I am a girl, 17, and I speak from experience. When I started to smoke pot, I was 15 and in the 10th grade. I just wanted to see what it would do to me. Well, I tried it and liked it, although I had to smoke a lot to get high.

After six months my grades began to slip. When I was in the ninth grade I made nearly straight A's, with an occasional B. After six months on pot I was a B and C student. One year later I was getting D's.

I decided to try an experiment. It took a year, but it was worth it. I proved the following:

1. You can't get physically addicted to pot, but it isn't easy to quit if you enjoy the high.

2. I am getting straight A's now and I am not smoking anymore.

3. My memory has improved a lot this past year.

4. I get along better with people and have a happier outlook on life.

5. Smoking isn't a sign of being cool. It's a sign of being stupid.

6. You waste a lot of money for something that wasn't all that great.

I'm thankful I didn't get busted. When I think of the shame I could have brought on my parents, I could die.

Please print this, Ann. Kids might listen to someone their own age. --Straight In Denver

Dear Straight: Here it is and I can add nothing except my thanks.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm writing a few months in advance because I need bolstering. My mother -in -law comes every winter and stays a month. I wait on her hand and foot. She doesn't lift a finger. It is all "expected". Never a word of thanks for anything. By the time she leaves I'm a bundle of nerves.

This woman has money but never spends one dime when she is a guest in our home. It would never occur to her to take us out to dinner or buy some steaks or pay for a tankful of gas, although I seem to be driving her around for hours at a time.

My mother -in -law is the last person I would pick for a friend. She is selfish, demanding and unappreciative. Yet I am stuck with her for four weeks every year. I have threatened to leave a few days before she arrives next January.

You had such a beautiful relationship with your mother -in -law. What was your formula? --Frustrated

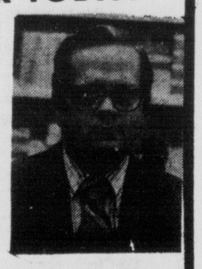

Dear Fruss: I didn't need a "formula" because I didn't have your mother -in -law. My advice is to abide by the A.A. motto, "Change what you can, accept that which you cannot change, and may God give you the wisdom to know the difference."

You cannot change your mother -in -law, so accept her as she is --with grace, if possible --for your husband's sake. Talk to your physician, who may have some advice to tide you over the rough spots. (And P.S. Stop waiting on her "hand and foot." It isn't necessary.)

Study program discussed

Judy Whitson of Risco talks with Dr. Gordon Bachus, assistant professor of education at Central Missouri State University, following completion by Mrs. Whitson of a 10-week program of graduate level study in adult education at the university.

Judy Whitson completes graduate study program

WARRENSBURG — Judy Whitson of Risco has recently completed an intensive 10- week program of graduate level study in adult education at Central Missouri State University. Participants in the institute were selected from applicants throughout Nebraska, Kansas, Iowa and Missouri.

The institute provided participants with unusual opportunities to explore specific innovations in adult basic education and survey the broader scope of general adult education. It was funded by the four state departments of education and the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The participants will return to their local areas to teach, coordinate or establish adult education services for their communities.

CMSU is one of 75 institutions of higher education offering graduate study in the area of adult education.

60th anniversary celebrated

DEXTER — Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Boone celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary with an open house from 2:30 to 5:30 p.m. Aug. 3. Their home was decorated with various sizes of white bells tied with pink bows and flowers and bouquets of flowers carrying out the color scheme of pink and white.

A huge bouquets of orchids, anthurium, bird of paradise, ginger and other tropical flowers graced the buffet. This was a gift from a granddaughter, Martha Lynn Brooks Hayward, who lives in Hawaii. The flowers were flown in a few days before the celebration.

The serving table was decorated with a white lace tablecloth with a border of pink net around the table attached by pink flowers and bows of pink ribbon with long streamers.

The wedding cake was trimmed with pink flowers and topped with small orchids.

Many relatives and friends came during the afternoon to visit the Boones.

The celebration climaxed with a dinner for relatives and close friends at the Hickory House Restaurant.

Attending the dinner were: Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Brooks and John of Webster Groves; Dr. and Mrs. Fred Brooks of North Port, Fla.; Mr. and Mrs. Dillard Bailey of Scott City; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bailey of Louisiana, Mo.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bailey and Chuck of St. Louis; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mullins and Mike, Tom, Tim of Kansas City; Mr. and Mrs. John Coffey and April of St. Charles; Mrs. Roy Ludwig of Cape Girardeau; Mr. and Mrs. Earl W. Bailey, Mr. and Mrs. Doran Vancil and Wade, Mrs. Jody Dunlap and Martha, Mrs. Floyd Anderson and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Matthews of Dexter.

After dinner guests were Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Boone and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Wharry of Dexter.

Grueling test for SHS gridders

"We need bodies!"

Sounds like a mortician, right? Well, those are the words of second -year SHS head football coach Terry Smith as he mused about the upcoming football season.

"Specialization," the coach shook his head. "The kids themselves probably want to play, but everybody tells them it won't be good for them, they'll get musclebound..." The veteran mentor gestures helplessly.

"We'll have at most 60 to 65 kids out."

Talking about the upcoming season, the coach --a well -known pessimist --described his team as "very small, slow, and young." A grim picture for Sikeston fans, unless you take into account that Terry Smith that used to cry year after year at Perryville and them come south and beat the favored Bulldog teams every year.

The first practice of the 1974 football season began this morning at 9 a.m. for varsity players. A grueling test of endurance as set for the varsity hopefuls, but a test that every basketball, baseball and tennis player ought to be able to pass.

"We get so frustrated," said Smith, "when we teach and work with the boys as freshmen and, even as sophomores. Then, some grownup or uninvolved friend takes him aside and talks about how football has ruined so -and -so or how good what's -is -name was until he went out for football." There is probably just as great of an injury incidence in the sport of basketball.

"Quitting's like a plague. A guy quits, then he tries to talk all his buddies out of it so they won't show him up."

The coach, who was an undeniable success at Perryville, where he got a great deal more co -operation from the school's athletes, said that he wasn't completely disappointed with last year's Bulldog team. "I still say we were the best 1 -8 team in the state." Mistakes and penalties killed the Bulldogs early against the "easy" part of their schedule and they narrowly missed upsetting the likes of Poplar Bluff and Jackson.

Participating in football can only benefit an athlete in other sports," was the main theme of the coach's discertation. Of course they don't need boys to come out when the athletes don't really have the desire or courage to hit and be hit. But, too many quality athletes are walking the corridors of Sikeston High School while the team goes on without them.

"We're going to be aggressive." Smith indicated that he felt the Bulldogs could overcome a lot of their handicaps in size and speed with execution and dedication.

As was the case last year, Sikeston will use a good defense to try and stay in every game this year. The players, hopefully, will have a carryover of the pride and confidence in themselves that the coaching staff attempted to instill last year.

Another added problem for SHS is an eight -game schedule. Sikeston has called far and wide in a vain attempt to schedule a ninth game on either of their two open dates, September 13th (the preferred date) or October 4th.

What it boils down to is this question: Does anybody want to play (or play for) the Bulldogs?

Tough bird

RISCO -- If the Department of Conservation's stocking of Korean pheasants in southeast Missouri ever results in a huntable population, the hunter had better make sure the bird is dead before he picks it up.

Those pheasants are tough!

Lowell and Charles Kirksey, who have a farm near Risco, have seen what apparently is the same cock pheasant (it was in the same fencerow) peck two cottonmouth moccasins to death in recent weeks.

The first time it happened, the snake was a 3½-footer. The bird attacked the snake and pecked out its eyes, then peeled its head back "just like you'd peel a grape" they said.

The second snake was even bigger, 4½ feet, and came to grief about 100 yeads from the first one. The pheasant still is trutting around, sleeves rolled up. looking for a fight.

Dennis White, a senior at Sikeston High School was one of the many Bulldogs who turned out today for varsity try -outs. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale White of 101 Powers Drive.

Jackson names new assistant

JACKSON -The JHS Indians have announced that Ken Callis will be the new offensive backfield under head coach Paul Webber this fall. The tribe began drills today.

Ken graduated from Nashville High School in Nashville, Tennessee where he participated in all sports.

Ken received a football scholarship to the University of Tennessee at Martin where he was the starting tailback.

He will join Webber, Bob Sink, defensive coach and Terry Moore, line coach and will be teaching English at the high school.

Mizzou going to air attack

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Opponents of Missouri can look for the Big Eight Conference team to put the football in the air more often this fall.

Or at least that's what the Tigers' 53-year-old coach, Al Onofrio, indicated during an annual luncheon Wednesday for newsmen preceding the start of practice next week.

Onofrio, in projecting on an 11-game season which starts Sept. 14 against Mississippi, said he expects "the most effective passing attack we've had in a long time."

"We have passers who can throw the ball and receivers who can catch them," he noted. "We feel we can pass more because now we have the ingredients."

Elected to do the Tigers' throwing are Ray Smith, a 6-foot-2 senior who took over late last season as a regular, and Steve Pisarkiewicz, a 6-foot-3 sophomore who was redshirted in 1973.

"They're both complete quarterbacks," emphasized Onofrio, who will go with seniors Ray Bybee at fullback and Bill Ziegler at tailback.

"We'll try to uzye the option to its full effect," added the Tiger coach.

The planned Mizzou aerial renaissance follows a season during which the Tigers ranked last in Big Eight passing and next to last in rushing.

"But we're going to do everything we can to cross that goal line," Onofrio promised. "I think we're adequate to have a strong attack."

Missouri's defense, which improved in 1973, features nine returning starters and represents the least of the team's worries.

"There's not a lot of experience in the offensive line," the coach noted, "but it has potential. It's going to be our aim to do the things that offensive line will let us do."

Home dates against Baylor and Arizona State follow the Tigers' opener against Ole Miss at Jackson, Miss., with Wisconsin the team's other nonconference foe.

"We're kind of excited about the football season and looking forward to the challenge," said Onofrio, who will greet 30 lettermen next week. "We're looking forward to having a good team."

Freshmen drills set

Eighth and Ninth grade football practice will begin at 9 a.m. August 19 as announced by coach George Hale.

There will be no physical test for the eighth grade participants but the freshmen boys must report to the Doghouse Saturday August 17 at 9 a.m. to undergo a physical ability test before reporting to practice on Monday.

Each boy must be able to jog continuously for three miles, do 75 situps and 25 pushups to qualify for the team.

Both eighth and ninth grade boys must present their physical card and have their insurance paid upon reporting August. 17.

Our weekends can pay for theirs.

BOSTON (AP) — The New England Colonials of the Atlantic Coast Football League have filed a $4.2 million suit against the World Football League and have asked the court to restrain former Colonials players from working in the WFL.

Colonials President Richard Cahill said the suit, filed in U.S. District Court on Wednesday, charges the WFL with violating both the Sherman Act and contractual agreements with Colonials players.

Smith does it all

ST. LOUIS (AP) — "I can't help it if I get hurt," the St. Louis Cardinals' Reggie Smith insisted. "I can't play the game any other way."

And the 29-year-old Smith, ignoring his current injury, was at his reckless best again Wednesday night as his team downed the San Diego Padres 5-1 in the National League.

Smith, who is swinging the Cards' most productive bat, blasted a three-run homer to cap a five-run fifth inning at the expense of Padres starter Randy Jones, 7-17.

But as important to Cards right-hander Alan Foster, who pitched a six-hitter, were fielding gems by Smith in the second and sixth innings.

After Smith speared Fred Kendall's line drive to start a second-inning double play he hobbled to short right field and sprawled to the AstroTurf to grab Derrel Thomas' drive with two Padres aboard in the sixth.

"That saved me two runs and got me out of a jam," acknowledged Foster, 7-7, who two innings later served a home run pitch to Nate Colbert.

"It probably gave me a chance to complete the game," Foster added appreciatively. "There were other good plays, but that was the key."

Limping for two weeks, Smith is enduring a badly bruised right hip suffered sliding in a game against the Philadelphia Phillies as his latest in a series of woes.

He remained in the lineup the next night only to be sidelined for 10 games when struck on the bruise while standing next to the batting cage in Pittsburgh on Aug. 2.

"It was just when I was beginning to hit well again, too," lamented Smith, who was earlier out of the Cards' lineup for 15 days in June.

"But with all that's happened I've still been able to get in more than 100 games," noted the muscular outfielder, who is hitting .318. "I've just had to learn to play with the pain."

Smith's big blow, his 17th homer, was accompanied by run-producing hits off the bats of Mike Tyson and Ted Sizemore as the Cards moved 1½ games ahead of Philadelphia in the NL East.

"We scored four runs with two outs," observed Manager Red Schoendienst, who was pleased.

"That's what it takes to win," added Schoendienst, whose team had lost five of its seven previous games. "That's unusual for us, at least lately anyway."

Missouri had the worst quail season in a decade in 1973, but it still was a fine season for most hunters. The 1974 prospects depend on weather, with peak hatches in June and August. Extremely wet or extremely dry conditions can have a bad effect on nesting quail.

Local star teams win

Sikeston's Little League teams entered in the Scott City invitationals posted easy wins during action Wednesday night.

In the 9-10 year old division, the local all-stars skunked Cape Rivermen 14-0 behind the no hit gem of Bert Perry, who was backed by a 14 hit barrage paced by Steven Green and Dewey Bickford.

Cape Blues zipped past Jackson 13-3 and Illmo-Scott City defeated Benton 17-7 in other division encounters. Tonight's 9-10 year old schedule has the Cape Blues battling the Sikeston Aces at 6 p.m.; Benton going against Oran at 7:30; and Illmo- Scott City colliding with the Sikeston all-stars at 9.

Sikeston's 11-12 year old all-stars and Aces also won. The Aces dumped Chaffee 12-4 and the stars defeated the Cape Nationals 5-1.

Scott Campbell limited the Nationals to five hits and joined with Andy Rogers to lead the team in hitting, slamming key doubles in the encounter.

The Aces got a seven hit pitching performance from Undra Lane and used the big bats of Jerry Lasater and Mike King to deliver the knockout blows. Lasater had four singles and King connected for a single, double and triple.

The schedule has both Sikeston teams competing tonight. The All-Stars collide with Lutesville at 6; Chaffee faces Jackson at 7:30 and the Aces meet Scott City at 9.

Inmates on hunger strike are brought to Scott jail

BENTON — Two Cape County jail inmates in Jackson were transferred Wednesday to Scott County jail for their participation in a two- day hunger strike that culminated Tuesday night when the pair slashed their arms aparently with razor blades and broken glass.

Chief Deputy W. S. Wickham said Leroy Herbert Jones, 28, of Jackson, and John Albert Ing, 19, of Cape Girardeau were brought to Benton where they will be kept in separate cells away from other prisoners.

Cape County Deputy Wickham, who was called to the jail when the disturbance occurred about 8:30, said the pair suffered superficial cuts which did not require the attention of a physician.

Deputy Wickham, who was called because Sheriff Ivan E. McLain is on vacation, said Lt. Warren Rauh cleaned and dressed the cuts and the two were attended to again this morning. He said Ing cut both arms and Jones only one.

The deputy said Jones and Ing, who were in a cell with David Joe Louis Davis, 21, of Cape Girardeau, refused to eat beginning Monday. Ing's brother, David Ing, 21, and Randy Wayne Peters, 22, both of Cape Girardeau, also refused to eat, apparently in sympathy of the other two, the deputy said. He said Davis was not involved in either the hunger strike or the disturbance.

Deputy Wickham said after the disturbance all four agreed to start eating again. He said the four gave no reason for the hunger strike.

The Ing brothers are being held without bond for failure to appear in court. Jones is being held in lieu of $2,000 bond on a second - degree burglary charge and Peters is being held without bond for parole violation, arrest reports show.

Pasley calls for change in school opening dates

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — State tourism chief James Pasley called for revision of school opening dates throughout the state Wednesday, claiming early back-to-school schedules are costing the state money.

"Many tourist-serving businesses, including hotels, attractions and restaurants, depend on student manpower during the summer and they depend on family vacationers for much of their business," Pasley said in a statement, adding, "with school starting early, the employes are gone and with children back in school the family vacation season is cut short, so many of their customers are gone also."

Noting that 84 per cent of Missouri schools now open prior to labor day, Pasely said, "with tourism a billion dollar business in Missouri, anything which cuts into the peak of the travel season is bound to have serious economic consequences."

Loss of tourism business because of early school openings is cutting back on tax revenue, Pasley said.

"This loss of tax revenue means less money for the state's general revenue and less money to support the schools."

With the multiple problems facing public education in Missouri, ranging from the monetary to compliance with many fedeal requirements, state education officials have indicated the question of school openings is a local one.

Many of the schools are opening early so they can be closed longer during the winter during hazardous weather and during fuel shortages.

Pasley contended that early school openings are inefficient regarding energy conservation because air conditioned schools must use their facilities in the hot weather.

He said he preferred that schools start after Labor Day and run later in the spring.

Matches were sold in Hanchow, China from A.D. 970 and called "fire-inch-sticks". Marco Polo witnessed their use during his trip to China in the 13th century.

IRS rule changes reflect inflation

WASHINGTON (AP) --Reflecting the higher cost of gasoline, the Internal Revenue Service Wednesday announced increases in mileage allowances for the use of automobiles for business, moving and medical purposes.

All the increases are effective for the 1974 tax year.

The IRS said that, effective back to Jan. 1, 1974, it will allow an increase of 3 cents per mile, for a total of 15 cents, for the first 15,000 miles an automobile is used for business purposes.

It said it will allow an increase of one cent per mile, for a total of 10 cents , for each additional mile over 15,000 miles.

Persons using their automobiles for medical and charitable purposes will be allowed an increase of one cent a mile for a total of seven cents. The same increase is allowed for automobiles used in moving.

In addition, the IRS announced an $8 increase for a total of $44, in the per - diem allowance for employes traveling away from home on business purposes.

The allowances for mileage and travel expenses can be included in deductions a taxpayer claims on his tax return.

Dr. Lamb
Gimick diets will never die

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Recently in our paper there was an article about a new vitamin E plus C diet which was supposed to give fast weight loss. Reading the article convinced me that it was another scheme to defraud gullible fat people who were so eager to reduce that they were willing to try anything. I am enclosing this article, and I hope you will comment on it, either pro or con, according to its merits.

DEAR READER — I can't find much fault in your impression. These ads are now sweeping the country, listed as a "new vitamin E discovery" or the E plus C diet. The list of foods in the diet shows that it is another low-carbohydrate diet of the same type used by Dr. Atkins or earlier by Dr. Taller in "Calories Don't Count." Dr. Taller ran into legal problems with his diet, and the Atkins diet has been branded by knowledgeable and leading nutritionists in the country as unscientific and dangerous.

Such diets work because the person eats fewer calories. Many high protein foods, lean steak for example, contain a lot of water. Lean raw round steak is 70 per cent water and a pound has only 600 calories.

These diets also cause the body to lose too much salt through the kidneys. Your body is more than 50 per cent water normally (your lean muscles are also 70 per cent water), and when you lose salt, water goes with it. The loss of too much salt and water leads to fatigue, faintness and a chemical disturbance of the body. You can recover from this by adding carbohydrates in a normal amount to your diet and then regain your normal amount of salt and water.

The vitamins in the so-called E and C diet do not do a thing to cause a person to lose weight. That is pure hokum. It is a good idea to take vitamins, though, if one is on a poor or unbalanced diet that limits all those important vegetables, cereals, fruits and milk with their essential vitamins and minerals. Such unbalanced diets are deficient in vitamins and minerals.

The ad you sent me claims one can lose a pound a day. That may be true if you lose too much of your water and salt or if you start losing your important muscle mass. That means loss of protein from YOUR BODY. There are 3,500 calories in a pound of fat. Even if you ate nothing at all and were starved completely, your body would not use that many calories a day so you can't lose a pound of FAT a day with any of these diets. The misleading statement is "a pound a day," but the question is A POUND OF WHAT? You have to be very active to use 3,500 calories a day, and if you are starving you won't feel like being that active. When you see any ad stating you will lose a pound a day, raise your index of suspicion to the red alert level.

If you lose muscle and cells from vital organs in the body, you are in trouble. Muscle tissue uses more calories even when it is resting than fat tissue does. Keeping a good muscular body helps you keep from getting fat. Unsound diets that cause you to lose part of your muscles fix your body so you use less calories at rest. Then you have to eat a lot less to keep from getting fat. These diets then make it likely that you will have a diet and obesity problem thereafter.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on losing weight, send 50 cents to the same address and ask for "Losing Weight" booklet.

Descendants wanted to share $46,000

CHICAGO — An estate valued at approximately $46,000 is searching throughout the states of Missouri and Illinois for sisters and brothers of Edward and Lulu (nee Bonhardt) Mayhugh or their descendants, to share in the "orphan fortune."

This became known here today when Gordon L. Cox, probate genealogist, 120 W. Madison, who specializes in tracing missing relatives to settle estates, took over the search with only clues from the past to guide him.

"Edward Mayhugh," Cox said, "was born in Edwardsville, Ill., Aug. 22, 1869. His wife Lulu was born in Sikeston, Mo. on Dec. 13, 1874, the daughter of Fritz (or Frederick) A. Bonhardt, who was born in about 1850, and his wife Rebecca, nee Narrick (or Narrix), who was born in about 1842.

"While we have been unable to ascertain whether Edward Mayhugh had any brothers or sisters," Cox continued, "there is indication that Lulu Bonhardt Mayhugh had three sisters and one brother.

A sister named Anna was born about 1869 and married a Lee Ward July 5, 1888 in Scott County, Mo. Pauline F. Bonhardt was born on Dec. 23, 1872 in Scott County, Mo., and Leonora B. Bonhardt was born in about 1874. Otto Bonhardt was born about 1880.

"We are searching for these sisters and brother, if they are still living, or any others about whom we are unaware, or their descendants, who would be entitled to share in the tidy sum."

Cox said he is also seeking people who may have known the Mayhughs or Bonhardts, or members of their families, and can give information which will help the heirs claim the money about which they are obviously unaware.

Standard will offer filmstrips to schools

A remarkable classroom learning tool will be provided this year as a public service by The Daily Standard for the young people in the junior and senior high schools of this area.

It consists of a series of filmstrips tied in with current events and developed by The Associated Press, world's largest news gathering organization, and with Scott Education, which has specialized experience in the educational filmstrip field.

The service, called Special Report, is distributed once a month during most of the school year. The Daily Standard will meet the costs involved in the project.

Each strip, shown by teachers to their students in such courses as social studies, history, current events and civics, are in color and have a commentary in sound.

The strips are professionally produced and attractive enough to hold interest in subjects where student interest is sometimes hard to come by.

Many Speical Report programs have won awards during the past several years, and have won enthusiastic endorsement from educators across the nation.

Subjects scheduled for the coming school year include alcholism and its effect on society, the background on the Middle East crisis, the labor movement today, the role of the lobbyist in the law-making process, the rights of personal privacy, socialism andthe welfare state, and the nation's court system.

State No. 1 in Zinc

ROLLA — For the first time in over half a century, Missouri ranks as No. 1 in zinc mining in the nation, according to Dr. Wallace B. Howe, state geologist and director of the Research and Technical Information Divisin of the Department of Natural Resources.

Contributing to Missouri's No. 1 position in 1973 is a 33 per cent increase in mine production plus an assist from mine closings and other production curtailments in two major zinc- producing states -- New York and Tennessee.

The 82,350 tons of zinc produced by Missouri mines last year is the largest tonnage since 1917 when 133,000 tons were mined. The record high for the state is 156,000 tons mined in 1916.

Present production is entirely from the Southeast Missouri lead district, while earlier production was mainly from the Tri-State zinc- lead district of southwestern Missouri. For all but two of the 43 years between 1875 and 1917, Missouri was the leading zinc mining state in the United States.

A shift from the Joplin area to the Picher field in Oklahoma and Kansas in 1918 resulted in a sharp decline in Missouri's zinc production. The last significant zinc production from southwestern Missouri was in 1957, and in 1970 all mining in the Tri- State district terminated with the closing of the Swalley mine in Kansas.

Improved metallurgy in the Lead Belt of the Southeast Missouri lead district in the 1920s made possible the recovery of increasing amounts of byproduct zinc in periods of favorable prices. In the 1960s the significance of the zinc content in the lead ores of the Viburnum trend became apparent as each new mine came on-stream

Zinc is an essential metal in the industrial economy, with principal uses in alloys and galvanizing, says Dr. Howe. Total zinc consumption in the United States in 1973 increased six per cent over 1972's consumption. About 50 per cent of the U. S. demand is from imported ore concentrates and metal.

More than half of the total inputs are supplied by Canada. U.S. mine production supplies about 25 per cent of the total demand. In 1973, domestic mine production amounted to 479,000 tons, with Missouri supplying 17 per cent. The remainder was recovered from scrap and government stockpiles.

About 20 per cent of the total U. S. zinc consumption is recovered from scrap. Of the estimated scrap available, only 30 per cent is recycled and, to date, recycling has been largely restricted to new scrap. Old scrap contributes less than five per cent of the nation's annual consumption.

A tight ore market and higher energy costs for smelting are two factors that will bring about greater utilization of scrap.

St. Joe Minerals Corp. has been the largest U. S. mine producer of both zinc and lead in recent years. Zinc shortages are reflected in continuously rising prices which have climbed from an annual average of 14.6 cents in 1969 to 20.6 cents in 1973. With suspension of price and wage controls, the price has since skyrocketed to as much as 40 cents per pound this month.

The leading zinc- producing states, which account for 69 per cent of the total U. S. mine production, in their 1973 order, are: Missouri, New York, Tennessee, Colorado and Idaho.

Although it appears that New York is destined to be No. 1 in 1974, Dr. Howe believes that Missouri will continue as a major zinc producer for many years, competing with Tennessee and Colorado for second or third position. It is not inconceivable though that new zinc- lead ore deposits like those in the Tri- State district will be found in Missouri.

Council ring dedicated

SILVA — The Order of Arrow Lodge dedicated a new council fire ring Saturday night at Camp Lewallen for the Southeast Missouri Council of Boy Scouts of America.

The special ceremony was conducted in memory of August "Doc" Eugas, a volunteer scout leader for 33 years in Troop 3, sponsored by Centenary Methodist Church in Cape Girardeau.

Eugas earned the rank of Eagle Scout and continued in scouting as assistant scoutmaster of the troop. Bill Copanas, scoutmaster of Troop 3 for the last 12 years, led the program honoring Eugas.

Dr. James Kinder was on the program to explain how he had served as a chairman of the memorial fund committee which collected over $2,000 to finance the construction of the bleacher type seats.

Several Cape Girardeau organizations assisted in completing the project.

A plaque listing achievements of Eugas' scout career was mounted in stone.

L. A. Stainhoff coordinated the workers who completed the bulldozing and installation of seats for the arena.

An Explorer post from Tulsa, Okla., performed Indian dances in full costume as a part of the program. Over 200 scouts were camping at Camp Lewallen to complete requirements to join the Order of Arrow Lodge of Honor Campers.

Three hurt

Barsi received minor injuries, as did passengers Marilyn Barsi, 33, and Bradley Barsi, 1, of St. Charles. All three were taken to Madison County Memorial Hospital here for treatment.

What's the law?

The case of the gay bandito

By JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Steverino sashayed daintly into Harry's liquor store and, in a high sing -song soprano voice, announced: "Your money or your life."

Whereupon, Steverino produced a shiny pistol and Harry produced all of his money.

A short time later, Steverino fell into the hands of the law and , after questioning, was charged with having robbed Harry's liquor store.

In court, he -man Harry looked at eyelash fluttering Steverino and testified:

"Sure! That's the cream -puff that came into my store. And, while I gave him all my money, he didn't scare me for one minute. If I had blown a kiss at him, he would have fallen over."

Whereupon, Steverino's attorney demanded that the charges against his client be dismissed.

"Under the law," he argued, "robbery is the taking of property by force or fear. If Harry wasn't afraid of my client, obviously, there wasn't robbery."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you dismiss the charges against eyelash fluttering Steverino?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that despite Harry's bravado, there was no question that he was scared by Steverino. For after all, noted the judge, men do not ordinarily give up their hard -earned cash to a stranger who threatens them with a gun except out of fear of bodily harm.

Today in U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, Aug. 15, the 227th day of 1974. There are 138 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1914, the Panama Canal oficially was opened to traffic.

On this date:

In 1769, Napoleon Bonaparte was born on the island of Corsica.

In 1936, humorist Will Rogers and aviator Wiley Post were killed in the crash of their airplane near Point Barrow, Alaska.

In 1944, the Allied invasion of southern France began in World War II.

In 1947, the independent states of India and Pakistan were created, ending two centuries of British rule on the Indian subcontinent.

In 1948, the independent Republic of Korea was proclaimed.

In 1961, East German workers began building the Berlin Wall.

Ten years ago: President Lyndon B. Johnson attacked Republican presidential candidate Barry Goldwater for what Johnson called Goldwater's "loose statements" on atomic defense.

Five years ago: Arab saboteurs blew up an oil pipeline in the Israeli city of Haifa.

One year ago: President Nixon, in a national broadcast, denied any part in the Watergate break-in or cover-up and said the time had come to turn Watergate over to the courts and "for the rest of us to get on with the urgent business of our nation."

Today's birthdays: Britain's Princess Anne is 24 years old. Cooking expert Julia Child is 62.

Thought for today: To recommend thrift to the poor is like advising a man who is starving to eat less — Oscar Wilde, Irish writer, 1854-1900.

Fruits and vegetables, as they ripen, tend to increase in water content. An apple seed, only 10 per cent water, will produce a ripe apple that is 80 per cent water. A ripe pineapple is 87 per cent water, a tomato is 95 per cent, and a watermelon is 97 per cent water.

On the other hand, a herring is 67 per cent water, a chicken 75 per cent, a frog 78 per cent, a lobster 79 per cent, an earthworm 80 per cent, and man has 70 per cent of his body weight in water.

Water is as vital as the air we breathe, yet we are careless with it. We pollute and waste it. By the time it reaches our homes, it contains every chemical and compound known to man. It is no longer the clean, fresh water that forms in the clouds.

Enjoy the best — try refined water. It's like drinking from a fresh mountain stream. For a home demonstration call Braswell.

U.S. citizens will be able to buy, sell and hold gold as of Dec. 31

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. citizens will be able legally to buy, sell and hold gold as of Dec. 31 for the first time since 1934.

President Ford signed legislation on Wednesday lifting the ban imposed during the worldwide depression of the 1930s, when the United States went off the monetary gold standard.

The action meant victory in a long campaign waged principally by conservative members of Congress, representatives from mining states and citizens who see the metal as a desirable hedge against inflation and the gyrating values of stocks and other investments.

Some economists argue that gold yields no interest and usually costs money to store and insure.

How and where will Americans be able to buy the precious metal?

Minutes after the signing was announced, Samuel Weiss & Co., a member of the New York Stock Exchange, said it had begun taking orders for gold from the public and other exchange members. Weiss was the first member firm to be authorized by the exchange as a bullion agent and the company said it had made arrangements with a minerals concern to sell gold bars in sizes ranging from ½ troy ounce to 50 ounces.

A spokesman at Weiss said the firm's bullion prices would be tied to the rapidly fluctuating gold prices quoted in world markets and would include the firm's own commission of 6 or 7 per cent. The closing price in London on Wednesday was $157.50 an ounce.

You won't have to go to the stock exchange to buy gold, however. Commercial gold dealers, commodities exchanges and coin dealers began making plans for the legalization of gold even before the legislation passed Congress.

A spokesman for Handy and Harman, a New York gold dealer which until now sold only to jewelry manufacturers and other industrial users, said earlier this year his firm would market gold in sizes from half an ounce up.

He said people probably would be able to send for the gold through the mail or purchase it like any other item.

The spokesman said the gold would be 24 carat—99.95 per cent pure gold—and probably would be advertised much like silver.

John Flynn of Perera Fifth Avenue Inc., which deals in currency and foreign exchange, said his company was making plans to buy gold from refiners, have it made into the shape of ingots and sell it in sizes from one to 100 ounces.

The commodities exchanges readied contracts for gold futures. Mark J. Powers, senior vice president of the International Monetary Market of the Chicago Mercantile Exchange, said the contracts probably would be traded in amounts of 100 ounces.

Legal gold trading could begin earlier than Dec. 31. The President has authority under existing law to permit it if he finds that such transactions would not disrupt the U.S. international monetary position. There has been no indication, however, that such a finding is in the offing.

Since 1934, the only legal gold traffic in the United States has been for manufacturing, dental, artistic and similar purposes.

The bill Ford signed basically provides for a $1.5 billion U.S. contribution, over four years, to the International Development Association. The gold provision was added as a rider.

The production of wheat in Missouri for 1974 is estimated at 38 million bushels, up 49 per cent from last year, but only five per cent above the 1972 crop. This production resulted from a substantial increase in acreage harvested, 1,310,000 acres in 1974, compared to 850,000 acres in 1973. The average yield per acre of 29 bushels is one bushel below the 1973 yield.

Cotton production is estimated at 300,000 bales, compared to 180,000 last year and 439,000 in 1972. The 1974 harvested acreage of 325,000 acres is up from the 173,000 acres harvested one year ago. Yield per acre in 1974 of 443 pounds is 58 pounds below the average yield in 1973.

Missouri production of grain sorghum is estimated at 26.4 million bushels, a decrease of 14 per cent from last year. Harvested acreage for this production is set at 440,000 acres, unchanged from 1973, while average yield per acre is estimated at 60 bushels, 10 bushels below last year.
